The French Peasantry 1450-1660:

The French Peasantry 1450-1660 Emmanuel Le Roy Ladurie, 1987 Studie over de economische en sociale ontwikkeling op het Franse platteland in de 15e, 16e en 17e eeuw French Peasantry, 1450-1650 Emmanuel Le Roy Ladurie, 1987-02-26

Divergent Paths Marc Egnal, 1996-07-18 Why are some countries without an apparent abundance of natural resources such as Japan economic success stories while other languish in the doldrums of slow growth? In this comprehensive look at North American economic history Marc Egnal argues that culture and institutions play an integral role in determining economic outcome. He focuses his examination on the eight colonies of the North, five colonies of the South which together made up the original thirteen states and French Canada. Using census data, diaries, travelers' accounts and current scholarship, Egnal systematically explores how institutions such as slavery in the South and the seigneurial system in French Canada and cultural arenas such as religion, literacy, entrepreneurial spirit and intellectual activity influenced development. He seeks to answer why three societies with similar standards of living in 1750 became so dissimilar in development. By the mid-nineteenth century the northern states had surged ahead in growth and this gap continued to widen into the twentieth century. Egnal argues that culture and institutions allowed this growth in the North, not resources or government policies. Both the South and French Canada stressed hierarchy and social order more than the drive for wealth. Rarely have such parallels been drawn between these two societies. Complete numerous helpful appendices, figures, tables and maps. Divergent Paths is a rich source of unique perspectives on economic development with strong implications for emerging societies.

Strange Parallels: Volume 2, Mainland Mirrors: Europe, Japan, China, South Asia, and the Islands Victor Lieberman, 2009-10-30 Blending fine grained case studies with overarching theory, this book seeks both to integrate Southeast Asia into world history and to rethink much of Eurasia's premodern past. It argues that Southeast Asia, Europe, Japan, China and South Asia all embodied idiosyncratic versions of a Eurasian wide pattern whereby local isolates cohered to form ever larger, more stable, more complex political and cultural systems. With accelerating force, climatic, commercial and military stimuli joined to produce patterns of linear cum cyclic construction that became remarkably synchronized even between regions that had no contact with one another. Yet this study also distinguishes between two zones of integration: one where indigenous groups remained in control and a second where agency gravitated to external conquest elites. Here then is a fundamentally original view of Eurasia during a 1 000 year period that speaks to both historians of individual regions and those interested in global trends.

Women and Poor Relief in Seventeenth-Century France Susan E. Dinan, 2017-09-29 Chronicling the history of the Daughters of Charity through the seventeenth century, this study examines how the community's existence outside of convents helped to change the nature of women's religious communities and the early modern Catholic church. Unusually for the time, this group of Catholic religious women remained uncloistered. They lived in private houses in the cities and towns of France, offering medical care, religious instruction and alms to the sick and the poor by the end of the century they were France's premier organization of nurses. This book places the Daughters of Charity within the context of early modern poor relief in France; the author shows how they played a critical role in shaping the system and also how they were shaped by it. The study also examines the complicated relationship of the Daughters of Charity to the Catholic church of the time, analyzing it not only for what light it can shed on the history of the community but also for what it can tell us about the Catholic Reformation more generally.

An Economic History of Medieval Europe Norman John Greville

Pounds, 2014-06-06 A clear and readable account of the development of the European economy and its infrastructure from the second century to 1500. Professor Pounds provides a balanced view of the many controversies within the subject and he has a particular gift for bringing a human dimension to its technicalities. He deals with continental Europe as a whole, including an unusually rich treatment of Eastern Europe. For this welcome new edition the first in twenty years text and bibliography have been reworked and updated throughout and the book redesigned and reset.

The World is Out of Joint

Immanuel Wallerstein, 2015-11-17 The dominant view in social science has been that the modern world shows a pattern of linear development in which all positive social trends rise albeit at an uncertain speed toward a relatively homogenized world. In the post 1945 period some analysts contested this linear model, arguing that the modern world was rather one of escalating polarization. Their view was strengthened by the separate emergence within the natural sciences of complexity studies which suggested that natural systems inevitably moved away from equilibrium and at a certain point bifurcated radically. This book, based on a truly collaborative international research project, evaluates the empirical evidence in this debate in order to 1 give an adequate portrayal of the historical realities of the world system, 2 draw a nuanced assessment about this debate and 3 provide the basis on which we can not only envisage probable future trends but also draw conclusions about the policy and/or political implications of past and future research. The work of ten research clusters based on crucial topics of overlapping nodes of social activity provides a vantage point with which to assess the basic issue: a clear picture emerges of world historical interpretations of continuing polarizations.

Fifty Key Thinkers on History Marnie

Hughes-Warrington, 2007-10-31 Fifty Key Thinkers on History is a superb guide to historiography through the ages. The cross section of debates and thinkers covered is unique in its breadth, taking in figures from ancient China, Greece and Rome through the Middle Ages to contemporary Europe, America, Africa and Australia. From Bede to Braudel, Marx to Michelet, Ranke to Rowbotham, Foucault to Fukuyama, each clear and concise essay offers biographical information, a summary and discussion of the subject's approach to history and how others have engaged with it, a list of their major works and a guide to diverse resources for further study, including books, articles, films and websites.

A Social History Of Imperial Russia, 1700-1917, Volume II Boris Mironov, Ben Eklof, 2000

This fully revised and updated volume of A Social History of Imperial Russia is a comprehensive synthesis of Russian social history from Peter the Great to the October Revolution of 1917. Boris Mironov begins with background information on pre-Petrine Russia and then focuses on the crucial events of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries He demonstrates how social events in this period including the creation of a modernized autocratic state the abolition of serfdom increasing urbanization and the first stirrings of capitalism to name a few played out in the Revolution and beyond    The Medieval West, 400-1450 David Nicholas,1973    Arts & Humanities Citation Index ,1992
