The Fruits of Fascism Simon Reich,1990 The West German economic miracle Simon Reich suggests may be best understood as a result of the discriminatory economic policies of the Nazi regime Reich contends that ideological and institutional characteristics originating under fascism were sustained despite Germany's return to democracy and heavily influenced the economic success of its automobile industry By contrast the liberal economic policies of the British state led in time to the decline of an industrial sector that in 1930 had closely resembled its German counterpart Through detailed comparative histories of German and British automobile firms Reich challenges traditional explanations of the divergent performances of the two nations economies and sheds new light on the relationship between state policy and economic success in pre and postwar Europe Liberal nondiscriminatory British policies favorable to multinational investment contributed significantly to the decline of domestic firms he argues so that eventually multinationals could threaten the health of the entire British economy by investing elsewhere The Nazi state however thwarted the development of American subsidiaries and fostered a core of producers government officials bankers and labor union leaders

Policy Responses to the Interwar Economic Crisis Adnan Türegün,2022-04-01 This book is about national economic policy responses to the Great Depression of the interwar period Taking off from a generally liberal starting point in the 1920s states diverged greatly in their responses Some were daring while others remained conservative The two groups further differed among themselves in both degree and kind The book gives a certain shape to this messy reality by identifying broad policy patterns paradigms and offers an explanation of it which emphasizes the ideational disposition of policy actors while recognizing the context that limits what they can do More specifically it argues that the ideas held by rulers and the strategies they consequently developed regarding three major groups of interest business labour and most critically agrarians largely determined economic policy variation across nations

Mott IV,William H. Mott,2004-05-30 This study expands the narrow economic commercial focus of the topical media and places globalization in a multidisciplinary context as a continuing process and a permanent condition that transforms human living and society Early chapters review the development of globalization as creating and diffusing knowledge expanding people s perspectives on living and continuing progress These chapters introduce globalization as an iterative human and deliberate process of creating new knowledge and using it to reinterpret the world time and man s place in both The later chapters present the major analytical perspectives of globalization political cultural and economic and a comparison of the primary carriers of globalism and barriers to globalization Drawing on classical and modern analysis as well as narrow topical journalism the work focuses each perspective on people through the human processes of creating knowledge and living together The work expands the economic perspective beyond the fashionable focus on trade and investment into the triggering and shadowing relationships between economic growth political conflict and social stress The political perspective expands international politics and law to global governance triadic dispute resolution and global civil society The cultural and antiglobal perspectives reflect the success of economic globalization in bringing people directly into the narrowly rational processes of international politics and economics The final analytical chapter collects and compares observations and develops conclusions about globalization across the several perspectives Speculation about alternative futures for globalizing humanity can constitute a coherent standard ideal or direction for policymaking or an agenda for continuing research and debate

Saari,1999-05-30 Should 185 sovereign nations allow 750 giant corporations to invest corporate profits as they alone see fit or must public authority be mobilized to protect public interest by reining in these economic behemoths as they roam the global markets By integrating many fields of knowledge and bringing to bear their disparate viewpoints Dr Saari makes his own viewpoint clear The people did not elect investment bankers and CEOs and neither group represents the people and the public interest His book is a compelling argument for offering others a place at the table and for giving them a voice in deciding how billions in world currencies should be spent or invested Comprehensive multidisciplinary empirical and analytical Dr Saari gives a coherent reliable examination of the many pressure points between globalizing corporations and the nations in which they are embedded and to which perhaps they should be indebted Dr Saari's exploration takes into account a variety of actors popular national sovereignty the variable definitions of capitalism clashing views on the need for foreign trade corporate practices like labor downsizing in home nations and their growing labor tax and regulatory problems He makes three key points 1 Regulated capitalism by nations is a viable public control system to shape the investment choices of giant corporations in such a way as to include the public interest 2 Popular sovereignty in a democratic society directs all subunits of that society Corporations must be separate from the state and subordinate to it and 3 Most nation states need to cooperate more fully to regulate in a globally coordinated way the global actions of giant corporations especially with regard to decisions on direct foreign capital investment Meticulously documented with a comprehensive bibliography and two important appendices Dr Saari's book is essential for scholars and students in a wide range of academic disciplines and for their colleagues in policy making capacities throughout government and the world s growing and ever more global corporations     America's 1930s Reconsidered ,1991
