A Knight at the Movies John Aberth,2012-10-02 Imagining the Middle Ages is an unprecedented examination of the historical content of films depicting the medieval period from the 11th to the 15th centuries Historians increasingly feel the need to weigh in on popular depictions of the past since so much of the public's knowledge of history comes from popular mediums Aberth dissects how each film interpreted the period offering estimations of the historical accuracy of the works and demonstrating how they project their own contemporary era's obsessions and fears onto the past To be a Pilgrim Frederick Quinn, 2001 Explores Anglican ethos from a historical perspective Pirates Peter Lehr, 2019-07-16 In his lively vivid history of pirates Lehr finds some striking continuities from ancient to modern times Foreign Affairs A Choice Outstanding Academic Title of the Year In the twenty first century pirates have regained a central place in Western culture thanks to an odd combination of a blockbuster film franchise and a dramatic rise in piracy around the Horn of Africa In this global history of the phenomenon maritime terrorism and piracy expert Peter Lehr casts fresh light on pirates Ranging from the Vikings and Wako pirates in the Middle Ages to modern day Somali pirates Lehr delves deep into what motivates pirates and how they operate He also illuminates the state's role in the development of piracy throughout history from privateers sanctioned by Queen Elizabeth to pirates operating off the coast of Africa taking the law into their own hands After exploring the structural failures that create fertile ground for pirate activities Lehr evaluates the success of counter piracy efforts and the reasons behind its failures Informative and often entertaining Lehr traces the global history of piracy quoting judiciously from an array of historians and sources to make his case The Times Groundbreaking provides a detailed analysis of the causes of piracy and reveals the operations of pirates ignored in most previous histories David Cordingly author of Under the Black Flag Policymakers would do well to read it as would aspiring pirates in search of career advice Financial Times

Library Journal, 1995 What Life was Like when Longships Sailed Time-Life Books, 1998 A history of the Vikings from A D 800 to 1100 discussing how their development of the longship enabled the Scandinavians to expand their interests throughout Europe Includes a timeline photographs of Viking artifacts and a glossary Colonial Palimpsest Troy A. Storjell, 2001 This dissertation is a colonial discourse analysis of the construction of S pmi S miland as colonized territory and the S mi as colonized subjects and an exploration of some oppositional responses to that construction Beginning with classical representations of the wilderness beyond the civilized space of the polis and subsequently of the empire and of the inhabitants with which the ancient Greek Roman and Hebrew imaginations populated this space the analysis goes on to trace the incorporation of the S mi into world views that constructed the uncivilized as mirrors to reflect the image of the civilized gazing subject back to himself From Tacitus Germania and later Roman and post Roman Mediterranean texts through the medieval and early modern periods the examination follows the pre colonial textual production of tropes of wildness magic and remoteness that form the basis of colonial discursive treatment of the S mi Colonial discourse emerges with the beginning of colonial expropriation of S pmi and the S mi in the sixteenth century This dissertation follows the development of that discourse and examines its transformations as it legitimizes and accommodates colonization into the twentieth century Successively informed by and incorporated within various metropolitan European discourses including those of the Enlightenment the Noble Savage and Social Darwinism colonial discourse marginalizes and objectifies the S mi while it inscribes them and their territory within the modern states of Norway Sweden Finland and Russia The examination of colonial discourse culminates with the extreme marginalization of the S mi in Knut Hamsun s novel Markens gr de In its final section this dissertation examines the challenges facing oppositional texts situated as they are within the traditions of colonial discourse s systems of representational containment and appropriation One of the primary difficulties faced by both S mi and non S mi authors in their counter hegemonic endeavors is avoiding the essentialisms and binary oppositions posited by colonial discourse This dissertation examines several different approaches to liberatory writing on the Sami ending with Aagot Vinterbo Høhr s Palimpsest and Laila Stien s Vekselsang two novels that undermine the essentialist constructions of colonial discourse and open a discursive space for multiple and diverse articulations of S mi resistance and identity
