The Flu Season:

The Flu Season & Intermission Will Eno, 2016-08-03 The Flu Season No one in the middle of being in love ever sat down to write a love story It's only after the belongings are sorted and the shirts returned that the pencils are sharpened and the notebooks opened So in a serious way love stories are never love stories Love is their inspiration yes but the end of love is the reason for their existence This is a problem It proposes anti journeys where we saw only journeys directs things toward a new negative we hadn't intended The Flu Season tries to be a love story anyway It has a strategy The play revels in ambivalence lives in fits and starts and derives a flailing energy from its doubts about itself But these come at a price which is paid by the characters in the play A kind of clarity finally comes In the end is the end Intermission Two couples chat with one another at a play's intermission From what we have heard it sounds dreadful which the cocky Jack points out But his quibbles give way before Mr Murray's torrent of memory and invective He doesn't want to hear stylistic complaints he wants the boy to recognize the play's attempts at truth And while Mr Murray's curmudgeon sneers at audiences yep for weeping at shows Mr Eno then makes us practically by brute force cry for him Mr Eno's triumph is both canny and deeply touching a vital look into a theater that actually reminds us what it's for The New York Sun The Flu Season was the winner of the 2004

Regan, 2005 Influenza is an RNA virus whose segmented genome is encapsidated into viral

ribonucleoprotein complexes vRNPs Upon infection the vRNPs migrate into the nucleus where transcription and replication take place The vRNPs contain a RNA dependent RNA polymerase that is responsible for viral transcription and replication The polymerase is composed of three subunits PB1 PB2 and PA PB1 has polymerase activity and PB2 is involved in viral transcription The function of PA is unclear To help elucidate the role of PA in the viral life cycle 16 conserved regions of PA were targeted for alanine substitution A plasmid based transfection system was used to generate recombinant influenza particles bearing each mutation which were tested for viral viability and the ability of each mutant polymerase to transcribe and replicate a reporter Mutations in the N terminus were not well tolerated and resulted in either non viable or attenuated viruses One of the mutants J10 was capable of RNA synthesis yet did not create viral particles capable of plaque formation in MDCK cells Specifically when compared to wild type this mutant synthesized 50 7% vRNA 86 12% mRNA and 128 18% cRNA These levels are compatible with viability as mutants J8 27% and J12 23% produced significantly less vRNA than J10 yet were viable by plaque assay The mRNAs generated from J10 polymerase were found to be translationally active and both the mutant protein and its RNA products were appropriately localized in the cytoplasm where influenza assembly occurs Nevertheless J10 failed to generate infectious particles from cells in a plasmid based influenza assembly assay and hemagglutinating material from the supernatants of such cells contained little or no nuclease resistant genomic RNA These findings suggest that PA has a previously unrecognized role in assembly or release of influenza virions perhaps influencing core structure or the packaging of vRNAs or other essential components into nascent influenza particles
