- Site-silence protocol (this assumes a low level of control of circulation or food availability) involves not feeding a designated 10% of the colony.
- Controlled-pairing system by Krukowski (1981) combining water-restriction experiments with food-restriction results in a low survival in controls.
- Controlled-pairing food deprivation (Krukowski) or water-restriction.
- Water-restriction or dehydration by ensuring you have control of the water supply of your colony. In the initial paper "It is a difficult experiment to carry out, requires a great deal of care, and is usually done in the laboratory of a specialist, or where it might happen in the field because of drought or lack of water. It is an expensive, often dangerous, experiment because of the various dangers to the pupae."

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 12 sedentary women, 40 to 50 years of age, who were randomly selected from a telephone directory. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and an exercise group. The control group consisted of six women who did not exercise, and the exercise group consisted of six women who exercised for 12 weeks. The exercise group was instructed to exercise for 30 minutes, three times a week, at a heart rate of 150 to 160 beats per minute. The control group was instructed to remain sedentary. The subjects were monitored for 12 weeks. The HR and EE were measured at the beginning and end of the 12-week period. The results of the study showed that the exercise group had a significant increase in HR and EE compared to the control group. The HR of the exercise group increased from 140 to 150 beats per minute, and the EE increased from 1,800 to 2,200 kcal per day. The HR of the control group remained at 140 beats per minute, and the EE remained at 1,800 kcal per day. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week training program can increase the HR and EE of sedentary, middle-aged women.

- At low water levels, that are longer than the standard of discharge, the wall-mounted wetted surface of the VESDA probe is submerged. In such cases, the flow may interrupt the signal to the smoke alarm.
- The wall-mounted probe is not completely wetted by the VESDA standard test specification, so the length of the probe may differ slightly depending on the wall-mount application.
- Do not install these units horizontally. This may damage the product or reduce the probability of the sensing of smoke.
- To minimise the risk of fire, the probe should be installed in a vertical position.
- For all units, the probe should be kept at least 100mm from the wall.
