Bioclimatic Housing Richard Hyde, 2012-04-27 In the search for sustainable architecture there is growing interest in the relationship between nature and design In this vital new book the term bioclimatic relating to the dynamic between climate and living organisms is applied by the authors in focusing on countries where housing requires cooling for a significant part of the year In this context Bioclimatic Housing covers creative vernacular architecture to present both the theory and practice of innovative low energy architecture The book interweaves the themes of social progress technological fixes and industry transformation within a discussion of global and country trends climate types solutions and technologies Prepared under the auspices of a 5 year International Energy Agency IEA project and with case studies from Iran Malaysia Australia Japan Sri Lanka and Italy this is a truly international and authoritative work providing an essential primer for building designers builders developers and advanced students in architecture and engineering      The Autonomous House Brenda A. Vale, 1972      Building Care Brian J.B. Wood, 2009-02-18 Building care encompasses everything from maintenance of a building to energy conservation and range of approaches including the effects on design A range of approaches to looking after buildings and their users is covered in this book The rationale and conditions that support them e.g. PPM preventative planned maintenance JIT just in time are explained together with the commercial and environmental imperatives driving new approaches to building care      SRC/DOE Autonomous Housing Study University of Cambridge. Department of Architecture. Technical Research Division, 1974      Materials for a Healthy, Ecological and Sustainable Built Environment Emina K. Petrović, Brenda Vale, Mai Britt Pedersen Zari, 2017-03-23 Principles for Evaluating Building Materials in Sustainable Construction Healthy and Sustainable Materials for the Built Environment provides a comprehensive overview of the issues associated with the selection of materials for sustainable construction proposing a holistic and integrated approach The book evaluates the issues involved in choosing materials from an ecosystem services perspective from the design stage to the impact of materials on the health of building users The three main sections of the book discuss building materials in relation to ecosystem services the implications of materials choice at the design stage and the impact of materials on building users and their health The final section focuses on specific case studies that illustrate the richness of solutions that existed before the rise of contemporary construction and that are consistent with a sustainable approach to creating built environments These are followed by modern examples which apply some if not all of the principles discussed in the first three sections of the book Provides a holistic and integrated approach to the issues associated with the selection of materials for sustainable construction Provides a thorough understanding of ecosystem services based on ecology research for built environment design Provides an original review of the impact of materials on human health Provides case studies to illustrate the points above
