Mechanisms of Resistance to Plant Diseases A.J. Slusarenko, R.S. Fraser, L.C. van Loon, 2001-11-30 Plant pathogen interactions is a rapidly developing area among the plant sciences Molecular genetics has provided the tools to analyse and manipulate mechanisms of pathogenicity and resistance responses and has facilitated their study from the population to the molecular level The book brings together the views of experts in the field and provides an overview of the genetic basis of interactions between fungi bacteria viruses and their host plants the triggering of plant defences and the complex array of plant responses to stop pathogen invasion as well as possible applications for improved plant protection The chapters are organised and written to make an advanced textbook rather than simply a collection of reviews or something resembling conference proceedings Thus authors have largely concentrated on a didactic approach and the book should remain useable for several years in spite of the rapid progress in research The text is aimed at advanced students in the field of plant pathology as well as researchers requiring an integrated picture of plant resistance to pathogens

Domingues, Yang Liu, Ping Li, Sagheer Ahmad, 2024-05-17 Low temperature stress is the primary abiotic stress that affects the growth and development of plants and their geographical distribution This can lead to the solidification of membrane lipids and decrease of enzymatic reaction rate in plants in a relatively short time or indirectly affect the imbalance of respiration and photosynthesis accumulation of toxic substances ATP depletion cell solute leakage and wilting due to water loss Low temperature stress can be divided into chilling stress and freezing stress according to the damage caused to plants Both chilling and freezing stress drastically threaten global food security and species diversity in the northern and frigid temperate zones Once plants experience low temperature stress the regulation mechanism of gene expression is rapidly activated to cope with the adverse environment

International Plant Proteomics Organization (INPPO) World Congress 2014 Joshua L. Heazlewood, Jesús V.

Jorrín-Novo, Ganesh Kumar Agrawal, Silvia Mazzuca, Sabine Lüthje, 2017-02-08 The field of proteomics has advanced considerably over the past two decades. The ability to delve deeper into an organism's proteome identify an array of post translational modifications and profile differentially abundant proteins has greatly expanded the utilization of proteomics. Improvements to instrumentation in conjunction with the development of these reproducible workflows have driven the adoption and application of this technology by a wider research community. However the full potential of proteomics is far from being fully exploited in plant biology and its translational application needs to be further developed. In 2011 a group of plant proteomic researchers established the International Plant Proteomics Organization (INPPO) to advance the utilization of this technology in plants as well as to create a way for plant proteomics researchers to interact, collaborate and exchange ideas. The INPPO conducted its inaugural world congress in mid 2014 at the University of Hamburg, Germany. Plant proteomic researchers from around the world were in attendance and the event marked the maturation of this research community. The Research Topic captures the opinions, ideas and research discussed at the congress and encapsulates the approaches that were being applied in plant proteomics.

Necrotrophic Fungal Plant Pathogens Antonieta De Cal, María Del Mar Jiménez-Gasco, Paloma Melgarejo, 2022-03-09 Paloma Melgarejo is an author on one patent issued in Spain and one patent issued internationally and has co obtained plant variety rights for the following strawberry varieties: Aguedilla, Amiga, Carisma, Fontanilla, Fuentepina, Marina, Medina and Santaclara. María Del Mar Jiménez Gasco is an author on two patents issued in Spain relating to the identification of Fusarium oxysporum.

The Plant Viruses M.H.V. Van Regenmortel, Heinz Fraenkel-Conrat, 2013-11-11 This volume of the series The Plant Viruses is devoted to viruses with rod-shaped particles belonging to the following four groups: the toba moviruses named after tobacco mosaic virus, the tobaviruses after tobacco rattle, the hordeiviruses after the Latin Hordeum in honor of the type member barley stripe mosaic virus, and the not yet officially recognized furoviruses, which are transmitted by rod-shaped viruses Shirako and Brakke 1984. At present these clusters of plant viruses are called groups instead of genera or families as is customary in other areas of virology. This peculiarity of plant viral taxonomy (Matthews 1982) is due to the fact that the current Plant Virus Subcommittee of the International Committee of Taxonomy of Viruses is deeply split on what to call the categories or ranks used in virus classification. Some plant virologists believe that the species concept cannot be applied to viruses because this concept according to them necessarily involves sexual reproduction and genetic isolation (Milne 1984; Murant 1985). This belief no doubt stems from the fact that these authors restrict the use of the term species to biological species. According to them a collection of similar viral isolates and strains does not constitute an individual virus i.e. it is a taxonomy entity separate from other individual viruses.
