The Art Of Theological Reflection:

The Art of Theological Reflection Patricia O'Connell Killen, John De Beer, 1994 Here is a book for the millions of Christians who want to make a vital connection between their faith and their lives. The authors describe theological reflection as the artful discipline of putting our experience into conversation with the heritage of the Christian tradition. Their practical book provides a way for all of us to experience greater meaning in life and a more tangible sense of God's creative presence.

The Art of Theological Reflection Ronald J. Gariboldi, Daniel Novotny, 1987 Interpreting Tradition Jane Kopas, 1986-01-01 In the Beginning is the Icon Sigurd Bergmann, 2016-04-08 Icons provide depictions of God or encounters with the divine that enable reflection and prayer. In the Beginning is the Icon explores the value of these images for a theology of liberation. Iconology, art theory, philosophical aesthetics, art history, and anthropology are integrated with rigorous theological reflection to argue that the creation and observation of pictures can have a liberating effect on humanity. In presenting art from across the world, In the Beginning is the Icon reflects the ethnocentricity of both art and religious studies and offers a new cross-cultural approach to the theology of art. Method in Ministry James D. Whitehead, Evelyn Eaton Whitehead, 1995-09 Theological Reflection and Christian Ministry James Evelyn Whitehead Topics ranging from Tradition and the minister to the broad concerns of theology in conversation with culture. What are They Saying about Theological Reflection? Robert L. Kinast, 2000 Theological reflection is a form of theologizing that begins with lived experience. It correlates this with the sources of Christian faith and draws out concrete implications for praxis. Robert Kinast finds five distinct types of theological reflection from within this common form: ministerial, spiritual, wisdom, feminist, and inculcation. Practical theology Each of these styles is analyzed in terms of the type of experience it favors, the way it connects this experience to theology, and what sort of praxis it envisions. The end result is a succinct overview of this wide-ranging and diverse approach to theology. BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved Christians Talk about Buddhist Meditation, Buddhists Talk About Christian Prayer Rita M. Gross, Terry Muck, 2003-04-29 This book adopts the format of the editors' previous book, Buddhists Talk about Jesus. Christians Talk about the Buddha. In that book, eight scholar-practitioners (four of them Buddhist and four Christian) explored their relationship to the great religious figure of the other tradition. Then the remaining contributors (two from each tradition) addressed themselves in a rebuttal fashion to the views expressed. In the new book, the subject is the differences and similarities between Buddhist meditation and Christian prayer. What can a Christian, for example, learn from the mental and physical rigor of Buddhist meditative practice? What can a Buddhist learn from traditional Christian prayer? Can one mix distinct religious identities (Christian with practice techniques associated with another religion) without compromising the religious specificity of either the identities or the techniques? Christian contributors include Frances S. Adeney, Mary Frohlich, Paul O. Ingram, Ursula King, Terry C. Muck, Yagi Seiichi, and Bardwell Smith. Buddhist contributors include Robert Aitken, Grace
