The Aural Rehabilitation Process:

The Aural Rehabilitation Process Herbert J. Oyer, Judith P. Frankmann, 1975

The Experience of Hearing Loss

Vinaya Manchaiah, Berth Danermark, 2016-12-12 Hearing loss is a common chronic condition which is often poorly recognized but can have multiple negative impacts not just on the lives of those directly affected but also those living with them. People with impaired hearing may begin a long and uncertain journey involving a number of key stages from emerging awareness and help seeking to diagnosis, adjustment and self evaluation. Based on a model of person centered audiological rehabilitation, this book explains why it is important to understand both patients' own experiences and those of their communication partners over time. It focuses particularly on the human dynamics of hearing loss, exploring the broader consequences of hearing loss for the individual, family members and wider society. In particular, the book gives insight into the patients and their communication partners' experiences and perspectives through clear and telling first hand narrative accounts, examines how people understand their own hearing loss, reflect on their experiences with hearing aids, both positive and negative, and evaluate treatment options. It considers the changes needed to conversations in order to include all communication partners, whether with impaired hearing or not, and discusses consequences of hearing loss using the International Classification of Functioning, Disability and Health (ICF). With its explicit aim to increase awareness of the need to include the patient and close relatives in the process of rehabilitation, this new text makes an important contribution to further improve evidence based practice in the field of audiological rehabilitation. An ideal text for audiology, ENT and nursing students of all levels.
