Motivation for Achievement M. Kay Alderman,2013-05-13 Understanding student and teacher motivation and developing strategies to foster motivation for students at all levels of performance are essential to effective teaching. This text is designed to help prospective and practicing teachers achieve these goals. Its premise is that current research and theory about motivation offer hope and possibilities for educators, teachers, parents, coaches, and administrators to enhance motivation for achievement. The orientation draws primarily on social cognitive perspectives that have generated much research relevant to classroom practice. Ideal for any course that is dedicated to or includes coverage of motivation and achievement, the text focuses on two key roles teachers play in supporting and cultivating motivation in the classroom: establishing the classroom structure and instruction that provides the environment for optimal motivation, engagement, and learning, and helping students develop the tools that will enable them to be self-regulated learners and develop their potential. Pedagogical features aid the understanding of concepts and the application to practice. Strategy boxes present guidelines and strategies for using the various concepts. Exhibit boxes include forms for different purposes, for example, goal setting, examples of teacher beliefs and practices, and samples of student work. Reflection boxes stimulate readers thinking about motivational issues inherent in the topics, their experiences and their beliefs. A motivational toolbox at the end of each chapter helps readers identify important points to think about, lingering questions, strategies to use now, and strategies to develop in the future. NEW IN THE THIRD EDITION: Updated research and new topics are added throughout as warranted by current inquiry in the field. Chapters are reorganized to provide more coherence and to account for new findings. New and updated material is included on issues of educational reform, standards for achievement and high stakes testing, and on achievement goal theory, especially regarding performance goals and the distinction between performance approach and performance avoidance goals as relevant to classroom practice.

Global Perspectives on Teacher Motivation Helen M. G. Watt, Paul W. Richardson, Kari Smith, 2017-09-08. Many studies of teacher motivation have been conducted in different contexts over time. However, until fairly recently, there has not been a reliable measure available to allow comparisons across samples and settings. This has resulted in an abundance of findings which cannot be directly compared or synthesised. The FIT Choice instrument offers the opportunity to examine motivations across settings. The various studies in this book suggest that people who choose teaching as a career are motivated by a complex interaction of factors embedded within communities and cultural expectations but seem generally to embrace a desire to undertake meaningful work that makes for a better society. Unlike some careers where rewards are in the form of salary and status, by and large these factors are not strong drivers for people who want to become teachers. They want to work with children and adolescents and believe they have the ability to teach.
