Trauma Informed Teaching through Play Art Narrative (PAN) Karen O. Wallace, Patrick J. Lewis, 2020-06-02

Trauma affects the lives of many children who we teach in school. It effects the students, teachers, who teach them, the administration and the school community as it is part of the school environment and culture. Teachers and administrators have great potential to set up an environment and adopt an attitude that can help heal the trauma in the lives of their students. Schools need to become trauma informed to be able to provide for the growing number of refugee children who have experienced terrorism, crime, war and abuse to better help some Indigenous children who due to systemic racism and discriminatory policies have been traumatised and live daily with trauma and the growing number of all children who have experienced various kinds of trauma during their life span. Trauma informed schools means that all students can feel safe enough to learn, succeed academically and thrive after having undergone a traumatic event. Trauma Informed Teaching demonstrates how Play Art Narrative (PAN) can be instrumental in creating trauma informed schools. The authors provide play art and narrative techniques and activities that educators can use to safely work therapeutically with traumatised children and youth.

Classroom Strategies for Trauma-Informed Teaching Amanda-Lee Pitzer, 2026-01-01 This book is a practical and deeply personal guide for educators seeking to understand and respond to student trauma. Blending scholarly research, classroom strategy, and lived experience, it explores how trauma affects learning, behavior, relationships, and teacher well-being, as well as how schools can become places of safety and healing. Written by an educator, trauma scholar, and Gold Star widow, the book weaves compelling narrative with evidence-based practices, offering both insight and hope. The text is organized into three sections that move the reader from foundational understanding to practical application: Part I Foundations of Trauma Informed Understanding examines what trauma is and how it impacts students' brains, bodies, and behaviors; Part II Shifting the Lens From Behavior to Belonging reframes misbehavior as a signal of underlying need, encouraging educators to seek root causes rather than punitive responses; Part III Practices That Restore presents strategies for creating trauma informed classrooms that prioritize safety, connection, and empowerment.

Trauma William Bender, 2020-05 Teaching Through the Tough Times Emily K. Harrison, 2010-07 I remember a few years ago when I was complaining about my students to a coworker who happened to be an ordained minister. As we parted ways, he said, "I can do all things through Christ Who strengthens me." I said, "Yeah, well Jesus never had to contend with this place." Five years later, Emily Harrison knew the truth of her friend's words: understanding that while her job as an educator presented seemingly impossible situations, it was truly offering opportunities to pray and invite God to work in miraculous ways. Whether you're an educator, a parent, or just someone who cares about the condition of our country's educational system, "Teaching Through the Tough Times: Devotions, Prayers, and Scriptures for Today's Educators" is for you. Using her years of experience, Emily K. Harrison entertains readers with classroom anecdotes while packing a powerful message about the importance of prayer As a gift for someone else or a tool for your own survival you ll find helpful hints and prayers as well as substantial scriptures empowering you to pray through the problems in order to teach through the tough times
