SQUARING THE CIRCLE

The urban metamorphosis for a new center of Barcelona

Arnau Pascual

27.08.2015

This paper is the result of a specific chronological analysis on the politic, social and economic process of an urban project. The meaning of public and collective are questioned when a strategic plan conceives a big scale park as centrality merging the pre-established city and the innovative techno-economic district. The resolution of the recent competition demands to convert Plaça de les Glòries into the reference and visible image of the new concepts of space and economy.

Comparison of the original Cerdà Plan with colored streets and the abstract grid with the superposition of the same streets and the square location.⁴

"Plaça de les Glòries Catalanes" appeared for the first time as a square in 1859 in the Cerdà Plan for the Eixample of Barcelona, a competition for the expansion of the city which was considered a pioneer project on the evolution of modern urban planning. It aspired to design a city through a square block grid, wide streets with integrated services networks (water, sewage system and gas) and green spaces; to give total priority to the citizens against the unhealthy situation inside the old city walls.

In this case, the square was conceived as the essential core of the urban network, a big rectangular hole of 9 hectares, rotated 30 degrees at the intersection of the three main accesses of the city: Gran Via, Meridiana and Diagonal Avenue. An exception to the regular Cerdà Plan that gives an idea of the important character that has always raised this place. Moreover, its original public and political value can be proved by the fact that in 1905, it was proposed to move the city hall and some cultural facilities into the actual location.
