Home was home as it is to children. It did not seem strange to them that instead of living in a small rented house on a closely built up street near the campus in the section of the city occupied by the other faculty families they lived in a rambling large roomed old farmhouse with five acres of land around it on the edge of the West Side. They did not know how heartily this land owning stability was condemned as folly by the rent paying professors perching on the bough with calculated impermanence so that they might be free to accept at any moment the always anticipated call to a larger salary. They did not know not even Sylvia for many years that the West Side was the quite unfashionable part of town. It did not seem strange to them to see their father sweeping his third floor study with his own hands and they were quite used to a family routine which included housework for every one of them. Indeed a certain amount of this was part of the family fun. Come on folks. Professor Marshall would call rising up from the breakfast table Tuesday day to clean the living room all hands turn to. In a gay helter skelter all hands turned to. The lighter furniture was put out on the porch. Professor Marshall joking and laughing donned a loose linen overall suit to protect his University clothes and cleaned the bare floor with a big Oiled mop. Mrs Marshall silent and swift looked after mirrors windows the tops of bookcases things hard for children to reach. Sylvia fetched a duster and Judith and Lawrence out on the porch each armed with a whisk broom brushed and whacked at the chairs and sofas. There were no rugs to shake and it took but an instant to set things back in their places in the clean smelling dustless room.
