Bakri Musa,2003-01-22 Malaysia s highly centralized and tightly controlled system of education fails in educating and integrating the young It is also ill suited for a plural society Instead of the present rigid and uniform system the writer calls for one that is flexible and diverse but with a core of commonality There should also be private sector participation to provide competition and spur innovation Achieving this requires radically changing the ministry of education from one obsessed with strict top down command to a more democratized model with power and responsibilities delegated to the periphery The minister is less a drill sergeant barking out orders to his raw recruits but more of a symphony conductor coaxing the best out of his skilled musicians The reforms suggested here will make Malaysians fluently bilingual in Malay and English science literate and mathematically competent as well as foster a common Malaysian identity Dictionary Catalog of the Research Libraries of the New York Public Library, 1911-1971 New York Public Library.
