T.S. Eliot, a Study in Character and Style Ronald Bush, 1983 The centenary of Eliot's birth in 1988 provided the salutary occasion to go back to his life and work to reassess him in the light of issues raised by various critical movements the new historicism feminism reader reception theory that have come to the fore since the New Criticism poststructuralist This sort of reassessment is the lively and pertinent idea behind Ronald Bush's collection of new essays on Eliot The essays assembled vary in approach but share a commitment to the discipline of history and an awareness that history can function as critique as well as celebration Many of the essays take issue with Eliot's self presentation and include documents Eliot chose not to emphasize Some press the limits of literary and intellectual history to enter areas of cultural practice stressing the institutions of publishing and the social processes of gender formation Other essays address issues such as the direction of twentieth century writing the impact of self professed masculinist poetry on women readers and whether modernism's social values were really consistently inimical to liberal visions of the future

The Dramatic Monologue Elisabeth A. Howe, 1996 In The Dramatic Monologue Elisabeth A Howe defines the characteristics of the subject as a genre clearly differentiating it from the lyric poem One feature she discusses is the double voice of the dramatic monologue the reader hears simultaneously the voices of the poet and the speaker This dialogical effect distinguishes the dramatic monologue both from lyric poetry and from narrative poems written in the first person The use of a persona allows the poet to distance himself or herself from the poem Howe investigates the origins of the dramatic monologue before examining poems by Browning and Tennyson both masters of the form and both largely responsible for its popularity with late nineteenth century readers and poets She offers close readings of Browning's The Bishop Orders His Tomb at Saint Praxed's Church and Tennyson's Tithonus Later chapters include detailed analyses of dramatic monologues by twentieth century poets including Ezra Pound's Marvell T S Eliot's Portrait of a Lady and poems by Robert Frost Randall Jarrell and the contemporary poet Richard Howard
