Post-logging Landslide Rates in the Cascade Mountains, Southwestern British Columbia Terrence Paul Rollerson, Thomas Millard, Bruce Thomson, Vancouver Forest Region (B.C.). Research Section, 2002 Ecological Approach to Differentiating Podzols in Coastal Southwestern British Columbia British Columbia. Ministry of Forests, Reid E. Carter, 1985 A contemporary review of podzolization is given and several taxonomic classification systems of Podzols used in Europe and North America are compared. The taxonomic differentiae used for the separation of selected great groups and subgroups of the Podzolic Order in the current classification system CSSC 1978 are tested against those of a new system. An ecological approach to classification is adopted which accepts the contemporary concepts and definitions while redefining the subdivisions within the Podzolic Order. The current and new classification systems are tested on 177 Podzol pedons. Average distance cluster analysis is employed to determine the degree of similarity among profiles by using multi horizon and multi parameter data The Southwestern Reporter, 1894 Geos, 1978 The Coast of British Columbia Including the Juan de Fuca Strait, Puget Sound, Vancouver and Queen Charlotte Islands United States. Douglas Hurt, 1987 This is a sweeping survey of American Indian agriculture from its ancient origins to the present. It combines a wealth of historical, anthropological, legal and economic information in a clear, readable synthesis. This is without doubt the most thorough and comprehensive treatment of American Indian agriculture in print. It is multidisciplinary and impressive both in scope and in depth. Hurt shows a deft hand in summarizing not only the literature on the evolution of agriculture in North America but also the dismal failure of American Indian policy to build on earlier Native American achievements. This book is the starting point for any serious consideration of the literature on subjects ranging from the domestication of corn to pre contact irrigation to current Indian water rights. Richard White author of It's Your Misfortune and None of My Own This extremely worthwhile work is a significant contribution to both Indian history and general American history. Gilbert Fite past president of the Agricultural History Society and the Western History Association Merits the attention of all who are concerned about the past, present and future of American Indians. The chapters devoted to the past century should be required reading for students of modern agricultural and American Indian history. Peter Iverson author of When Indians Became Cowboys Native

Peoples and Cattle Ranching in the American West A very thorough and readable account The scope of this work is truly impressive The bulk of it revolves around the implementation of United States federal Indian policies aimed at transforming Native Americans into self sufficient yeoman farmers and farm families during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries Hurt's chapters on Indian agriculture and water rights in the twentieth century are very timely and instructive Should become a standard text for American Indian history courses New Mexico Historical Review A useful introduction to the subject that is organized in an admirably clear fashion and can be recommended to student and specialist alike Journal of American History Offers fresh and vital insights into the life and culture of the American Indian American Historical Review A comprehensive authoritative account of one of the most significant topics in the history of Indian white relations Western Historical Quarterly Province of British Columbia, Canada British Columbia.
