Shopping Malls and Public Space in Modern China Nicholas Jewell, 2016-03-03

China's rise as an economic superpower has been inescapable. Statistical hyperbole has been accompanied by a plethora of highly publicized architectural forms that brand the regeneration of its increasingly globalized urban centres. Despite the sizeable body of literature that has accompanied China's modernization, the essence and trajectory of its contemporary cityscape remains difficult to grasp. This volume addresses a less explored aspect of China's urban rejuvenation: the prominence of the shopping mall as a keystone of its public spaces. Here, the presence of the built form most representative of Western capitalism's excess is one that makes explicit the tensions between China's Communist state and its ascent within the free market. This book examines how these interrelationships are manifested in the culturally hybrid built form of the shopping mall and its role in contesting the public space of the modern Chinese city. By viewing these interrelationships as collisions of global and local narratives, a more nuanced understanding of the shopping mall typology is explored. Much architectural criticism has failed to address the levels of meaning implicit within the shopping mall; yet it is a building type whose public popularity has guaranteed its endurance. Consequently, if architecture is to remain a relevant social art, a more holistic understanding of this phenomenon will be indispensable to the process of adapting to globalizing forces. This examination of Chinese shopping malls offers a timely and relevant case study of what is happening in all our cities today.

Reading Chinese Science Fiction in the Age of Techno-Nationalism Fontaine Lien, 2025-11-11

This book is a comprehensive examination of contemporary Chinese science fiction (sf) under the framework of Chinese techno-nationalism, aimed at introducing the genre to both general and academic readers and providing new, in-depth perspectives on work that has been published in the early twenty-first century. While China has made technology an important pillar of its external power projection and internal management strategy, this book approaches contemporary Chinese sf as a complicated mode of both aspiration and subversion within the sphere of technonationalistic discourse Using a general theoretical framework informed by the emergence and dominance of global neoliberalism this book locates Chinese sf as part of a world literature that is concerned with class inequality exploitative capitalism and the ways in which new technology contributes to these problems For those interested in the state of contemporary Chinese sf and its scholarship this book also provides a review of recent developments as well as emerging trends Its thematic chapters are organized in terms of different types of responses generated by techno power and techno nationalism sf that addresses traditional Chinese culture and myth sf that ruminates on the way China wields power internally and externally sf that considers global concerns in terms of Chinese responsibility and finally sf that critiques authoritarianism and censorship

Asian Migration and New Racism Sylvia Ang, Elaine Lynn-Ee Ho, Brenda S.A. Yeoh, 2022-10-20 Studies of racism against migrants have recently attempted to move away from the presumed dichotomy between white and Others yet the focus of much research remains predominantly trained on white people racializing Others whether Black Asian or Muslim Attending only to this white Other binary homogenises select groups of non white including Asians This approach also ignores racialisation and racism by Asians and among Asians Consequently there is a dearth of studies on issues of race in non white settings Through engaging the themes of co ethnicity intersectionality and postcoloniality this book contributes to extant studies of migration in three ways through 1 examining new geographical sites of racialisation and racism 2 illuminating racialisation and racism beyond the white Others binary and 3 introducing new dynamics in racialisation and racist discourses including intersectional factors such as nationality class gender language religion temporal framings and postcoloniality Asian Migration and New Racism will be of interest to scholars and advanced students of Sociology Social and Political Geography Social Anthropology History and Politics The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Ethnic and Racial Studies
