Simon Marius and His Research Hans Gaab,Pierre Leich,2019-06-19 The margravial court astronomer Simon Marius was involved in all of the new observations made with the recently invented telescope in the early part of the seventeenth century He also discovered the Moons of Jupiter in January 1610 but lost the priority dispute with Galileo Galilei because he missed to publish his findings in a timely manner The history of astronomy neglected Marius for a long time finding only the apologists for the Copernican system worthy of attention In contrast the papers presented on the occasion of the Simon Marius Anniversary Conference 2014 and collected in this volume demonstrate that it is just this struggle to find the correct astronomical system that makes him particularly interesting His research into comets sunspots the Moons of Jupiter and the phases of Venus led him to abandon the Ptolemaic system and adopt the Tychonic one He could not take the final step to heliocentricity but his rejection was based on empirical arguments of his time This volume presents a translation of the main work of Marius and shows the current state of historical research on Marius Memoirs of the British Astronomical Association British Astronomical Association,1897
