Parliament, 1895 Iron, 1880 "The" Public General Acts, 1889 The Decline of European Naval Forces Jeremy Stohs, 2018-04-15 The Decline of European Naval Forces aims to provide insight into the evolution of Europe's naval forces since the end of the Cold War To illuminate the drastic changes many European navies have undergone over the last twenty five years Jeremy Stohs analyzes the defense policies and naval strategies of eleven European states as well as the evolution deployment and capabilities of their respective naval forces In these case studies the development of Europe's most important naval forces is assessed per the respective strategic framework in which they have operated over the past two decades Stohs describes not only the general composition of each force but also the range of their capabilities and their important technical features His study shows that since the end of the Cold War all but a few European navies have significantly decreased in size and thus have ceded important capabilities along the way Based on the understanding of sea power as a prerequisite for political influence and economic health the consequences of the geopolitical shift toward the Asian Pacific region and most importantly the general decline of Europe's traditional naval capabilities the author concludes that the ability of European states to influence events near and abroad by means of their naval forces has atrophied and will continue to be called into question in the future Cobbett's Parliamentary Debates Great Britain.
