The Human Personality:

Molecular Genetics and the Human Personality Jonathan Benjamin, Richard P. Ebstein, Robert H. Belmaker, 2008-08-13 In the 1960 s and 1970 s personality and mental illness were conceptualized in an intertwined psychodynamic model Biological psychiatry for many un weaved that model and took mental illness for psychiatry and left personality to psychology This book brings personality back into biological psychiatry not merely in the form of personality disorder but as part of a new intertwined molecular genetic model of personality and mental disorder This is the beginning of a new conceptual paradigm This breakthrough volume marks the beginning of a new era an era made possible by the electrifying pace of discovery and innovation in the field of molecular genetics In fact several types of genome maps have already been completed and today s experts confidently predict that we will have a smooth version of the sequencing of the human genome which contains some 3 billion base pairs Such astounding progress helped fuel the development of this remarkable volume the first ever to discuss the brand new and often controversial field of molecular genetics and the human personality Questioning critical and strong on methodological principles this volume reflects the point of view of its 35 distinguished contributors all pioneers in this burgeoning field and themselves world class theoreticians empiricists clinicians developmentalists and statisticians For students of psychopathology and others bold enough to hold in abeyance their understandable misgivings about the conjunction of molecular genetics and human personality this work offers an authoritative and up to date introduction to the molecular genetics of human personality The book with its wealth of facts conjectures hopes and misgivings begins with a preface by world renowned researcher and author Irving Gottesman The authors masterfully guide us through Chapter 1 principles and methods Chapter 4 animal models for personality and Chapter 11 human intelligence as a model for personality laying the groundwork for our appreciation of the remaining empirical findings of human personality qua personality Many chapters 6 7 9 11 and 13 emphasize the neurodevelopmental and ontogenetic aspects of personality with a major emphasis on the receptors and transporters for the neurotransmitters dopamine and serotonin Though these neurotransmitters are a rational starting point now the future undoubtedly will bring many other candidate genes that today cannot even be imagined given our ignorance of the genes involved in the prenatal development of the central nervous system Chapter 3 provides an integrative overview of the broad autism phenotype and as such will be of special interest to child psychiatrists Chapters 5 8 and 10 offer enlightening information on drug and alcohol abuse Chapter 14 discusses variations in sexuality Adding balance and mature perspectives on how all the chapters complement and sometimes challenge one another are Chapter 2 written by a major figure in the renaissance of the relevance to psychopathology of both genetics and personality Chapters 15 17 informed critical appraisals citing concerns and cautions about premature applications of this information in the policy arena and Chapter 18 a judicious contemplation by the editors themselves of this promising and to some alarming field Clear and meticulously researched this eminently satisfying work is written to introduce the subject to postgraduate students just beginning to develop their research skills to interested psychiatric practitioners and to informed laypersons with some scientific background The Human Personality Dean Diggins, Jack T. Huber, 1976-01-01 The Structure of Human Personality (Psychology Revivals) H.J. Eysenck, 2013-06-06 This collection of twenty books is a chance to discover a diverse range of topics across the behavioural sciences From cognitive to social psychology psychiatry to psychoanalysis and many others in between It includes early works from psychologists who went on to become leaders in their fields as well as shaping the world of psychology as we know it today A great opportunity to acquire an eclectic mix of psychology titles from throughout the twentieth century The Structure of Human Personality Hans Jurgen Eysenck, 1953 The Human Personality Jerome L. King, 1893 Psychology of Personality Hubert Bonner, 1961 The book Psychology of Personality by Hubert Bonner is a comprehensive guide to understanding the intricacies of human personality The book is part of a psychology series and provides a detailed analysis of various aspects of personality including the theories of personality development personality traits and the impact of environment and genetics on personality The author begins by introducing the concept of personality and its relevance in psychology He then delves into the different theories of personality development including the psychodynamic behavioural and humanistic approaches The book also explores the concept of personality traits including the Big Five personality traits and how these traits can influence an individual's behaviour In addition the book discusses the role of environment and genetics in shaping personality including the impact of parenting culture and socialisation on personality development The author also examines the various methods used to measure personality such as self report questionnaires and behavioural observations Throughout the book the author provides numerous examples and case studies to illustrate key concepts and theories The book is written in a clear and accessible style making it suitable for students and professionals in psychology as well as anyone interested in understanding the complexities of human personality This scarce antiquarian book is a facsimile reprint of the old original and may contain some imperfections such as library marks and notations Because we believe this work is culturally important we have made it available as part of our commitment for protecting preserving and promoting the world's literature in affordable high quality modern editions that are true to their original work The Nature of Human Personality G. N. M. Tyrrell, 2019-03-04 For over thirty years G N M Tyrrell devoted himself to the study of psychical phenomena Originally published in 1954 in his last book written just before his death he probes as deeply as possible into the meaning of the results of psychical research He believes that paranormal phenomena are not isolated occurrences due to the exceptional gifts of a few unusual persons but the result of capacities which all human beings possess though in widely varying degrees After an introductory chapter on Psychology and Psychiatry the chief psychical phenomena extra sensory perception mediumship apparitions etc are discussed and illustrated Then follows a general criticism of current attitudes towards the subject The book ends with two chapters arguing that the normal and paranormal are one and suggesting a pathway to religion

A Theory of the Human Personality Lisle James Koch,Bernard Kleinman,1965 The problem of understanding the human personality faces each new generation Everyone has implicit ideas of how and why people behave as they do but to formalize in systematic fashion those ideas is another matter and the problem of personality theorizing This paper has attempted to set forth some basic criteria for developing a theory of personality which includes relevance brevity and clarity internally consistent assumptions and propositions scope and comprehensiveness adequate communication and consideration of individual and group norms This theory of personality attempts to present a real person theory whose personality structure has been divided into three major divisions explicitly state by Christ himself in Matthew 22 37 Thou shall love the Lord thy God with all thy heart with all thy mind and with all thy strength 1 Kardia which is the heart containing the seat of man s willing feelings and emotions 2 Psyche which is the soul or life energy principle of man s body spirit and kinesthetic sensing 3 Dianoaia which is the full intellect of man which understands makes insightful decisions makes value judgements and possesses a knowledge shared with himself by way of a conscience These structural aspects are structurally similar to Freud s tripartite structure of personality These similarities and many others illustrated in this paper suggest a thread of unity in historical and current conceptualization of what the human personality is and how it behaves and interacts intrapsychically and interpersonally The dynamic overlap and interaction of the concepts also suggest that personality theory must remain a dynamic and evolving discipline in the study of human nature and behavior in as much as it is ever dealing with a changing individual who lives in ever changing situations

The Psychology of Behaviour Elizabeth Severn,2015-06-17 Excerpt from The Psychology of Behaviour A Practical Study of Human Personality and Conduct With a Special Reference to Methods of Development The study of man s thoughts feelings and motives is a universally fascinating one Even the least thoughtful of us love to watch and speculate upon our neighbours actions and have sometimes an even greater interest for our own Any extensive or careful analysis however of human nature has been left almost entirely to the great philosophers and moralizers for the very good reason that the common knowledge of the human mind and its springs of action has been too limited and uncertain to allow of any satisfactory conclusions by the layman About the Publisher
