The House Of Fame Durham Mediaeval Texts:

Word of Mouth Gianni Guastella, 2017-01-13 The concept expressed by the Roman term fama although strictly linked to the activity of speaking recalls a more complex form of collective communication that puts diverse information and opinions into circulation by word of mouth covering the spreading of rumours expression of common anxieties and sharing of opinions about peers contemporaries or long dead personages within both small and large communities of people This hearsay method of information propagation of chain like transmission across a complex network of transfers of uncertain order and origin often rapid and elusive has been described by some ancient writers as like the flight of a winged word provoking interesting contrasts with more recent theories that anthropologists and sociologists have produced about the same phenomenon This volume proceeds from a brief discussion of the ancient concept to a detailed examination of the way in which fama has been personified in ancient and medieval literature and in European figurative art between the end of the fourteenth and the beginning of the sixteenth centuries Commenting on examples ranging from Virgil's Fama in Book 4 of the Aeneid to Chaucer's House of Fame it addresses areas of anthropological sociological literary and historical artistic interest charting the evolving depiction of fama from a truly interdisciplinary perspective Following this theme it is revealed that although the most important personifications were originally created to represent the invisible but pervasive diffusion of talk which circulates information about others these then began to give way to embodiments of the abstract idea of the glory of illustrious men By the end of the medieval period these two different representations of rumour and glory were variously combined to create the modern icon of Fame with which we are more familiar today Chaucer and the Norse and Celtic

Worlds Rory McTurk, 2017-03-02 Through an examination of Old Norse and Celtic parallels to certain works of Chaucer McTurk here identifies hitherto unrecognized sources for these works in early Irish tradition He revives the idea that Chaucer visited Ireland between 1361 and 1366 placing new emphasis on the date of the enactment of the Statute of Kilkenny Examining Chaucer's House of Fame McTurk uncovers parallels involving eagles perilous entrances and scatological jokes about poetry in the Topographia Hibernie by Gerald of Wales Snorri Sturluson's Edda and the Old Irish sagas Fled Bricrend and Togail Bruidne Da Derga He compares The Canterbury Tales with its use of the motif of a journey as a framework for a tale collection with both Snorri's Edda and the Middle Irish saga Acallam na Sen rach McTurk presents a compelling argument that these works represent Irish traditions which influenced Chaucer's writing In this study McTurk also argues that the thirteenth century Icelandic Laxd la Saga and Chaucer's Wife of Bath's Prologue and Tale each descend from an Irish version of the Loathly Lady story Further he surmises that Chaucer's five stress line may derive from the tradition of Irish song known as amhr n which there is reason to suppose existed in Ireland well before Chaucer's time
