The House of the Borderland by William Hope Hodgson William Hodgson, 2017-07-21 How to recognize which books should read The classic means forever then the classic books mean eternity Good friends good books and a cup of tea this is my idea life And You The House on the Borderland by William Hope Hodgson William Hodgson, 2018-01-14 Many are the hours in which I have pondered upon the story that is set forth in the following pages I trust that my instincts are not awry when they prompt me to leave the account in simplicity as it was handed to me And the MS itself You must picture me when first it was given into my care turning it over curiously and making a swift jerky examination A small book it is but thick and all save the last few pages filled with a quaint but legible handwriting and writ very close I have the queer faint pit water smell of it in my nostrils now as I write and my fingers have subconscious memories of the soft cloggy feel of the long damp pages I read and in reading lifted the Curtains of the Impossible that blind the mind and looked out into the unknown Amid stiff abrupt sentences I wandered and presently I had no fault to charge against their abrupt tellings for better far than my own ambitious phrasing is this mutilated story capable of bringing home all that the old Recluse of the vanished house had striven to tell The House on the Borderland

The House on the Borderland (1908). By: William Hope Hodgson William Hope Hodgson,2018-05-02 The House on the Borderland 1908 is a supernatural horror novel by British fantasist William Hope Hodgson The novel is a hallucinatory account of a recluse's stay at a remote house and his experiences of supernatural creatures and otherworldly dimensions Plot summary On the third day of their fishing holiday to the remote Irish village of Kraighton Tonnison and Berreggnog stumble upon the ruins of a strangely shaped house on a large lake They discover the mouldering journal of the Recluse an unidentified man who recorded his last days in the house before its destruction The Recluse begins his journal with descriptions of how he acquired the house along with his daily life with his sister and his faithful dog Pepper He started the diary to record the strange experiences and horrors occurring in and around the house The Recluse relates a vision in which he travels to a remote and vast arena the Plain of Silence surrounded by mountains with representations of mythological beast gods demons and other bestial horrors on their slopes In the center of the plain stands a house almost identical to his own save that the house in the arena is much larger and appears to be made of a green jade like substance Along the way he sees a huge menacing humanoid with swine like features Shortly after his vision of the arena the Recluse is attacked by humanoid pig like creatures that he names the swine things which appear to come from the depths of a great chasm under the house The struggle with these creatures lasts for several nights of increasing ferocity but the man kills several of the creatures and drives them off As he searches for the origin of the swine things the man finds a pit beyond the gardens where a river descends into the earth There he finds a tunnel leading to the great chasm A rock slide dams the water in the pit The man is trapped but Pepper rescues him The house transports the Recluse to an unknown place called the Sea of Sleep where he briefly reunites with his lost love Tonnison and Berreggnog must stop reading there as the house s collapse has destroyed much of the journal Except for an enigmatic fragment the book becomes unreadable between the passage describing the Sea of Sleep and a later entry titled The noise in the night They realise that the water from the dammed pit has overflowed to create the lake They suppose that the destroyed section of the journal may have explained other mysteries about the house As the Recluse s story continues he notices that the passage of day and night has increased in speed eventually blurring into a never ending twilight As he watches his surroundings decay and collapse to dust The dead world slowly grinds to a halt and the sun goes out after several million millennia Once the world ends the man floats through space seeing angelic human and demonic forms passing before his eyes Later he finds himself back in his own study on Earth with everything apparently returned to normality with one exception Pepper is dead The malicious swine beast from his earlier journeys to the arena has followed him back to his own dimension The creature infects the man s new dog with a luminous fungal disease Although the man shoots the suffering animal he also contracts the disease The manuscript ends with the man by then partly covered by the fungal growth locked from the outside only in his study as the creature comes through a trap door in the basement from the chasm under the house As he ponders suicide to end his suffering the creature tries to open the study door and the diary abruptly ends William Hope Hodgson 15 November 1877 April 1918 was an English author He produced a large body of work consisting of essays short fiction and novels spanning several overlapping genres including horror fantastic fiction and science fiction
