The House the Berrys Built Duff Hart-Davis,1991    The British Press and the Greek Crisis, 1943-1949 Gioula Koutsopanagou,2020-02-01 This book provides the first detailed analysis of how interactions between government policy and Fleet Street affected the political coverage of the Greek civil war one of the first major confrontations of the Cold War During this period the exponential growth of media influence was an immensely potent weapon of psychological warfare Throughout the 1940s the press maintained its position as the most powerful medium and its influence remained unchallenged The documentary record shows that a British media consensus was more fabricated than spontaneous and the tools of media persuasion and manipulation were extremely important in building acceptance for British foreign policy Gioula

Koutsopanagou examines how this media consensus was influenced and molded by the British government and how Foreign Office channels were key to molding public attitudes to British foreign policy These channels included system of briefings given by the News Department to the diplomatic correspondents and the contacts between embassies and the British foreign correspondents    Depictions and Images of War in Edwardian Newspapers, 1899-1914 G. Wilkinson,2002-12-13 Through a detailed examination of newspaper coverage from 1899 1914 this book seeks to understand the vicarious experience of warfare held by Edwardians at the outset of the First World War The attitudes towards and perceptions of war held by those who participated in it or encouraged others to do so are crucial to our understanding of the origins of the First World War Taking into account media history cultural studies and military history Wilkinson argues that the press depicted war as distant and safe beneficial and desirable and even as some kind of sport or game We are cautioned to avoid the same misconceptions of war in our own contemporary discussions of armed conflict
