The Media And Modernity:

The Media and Modernity John B. Thompson, 1995 What role have communication media played in the formation of modern societies How should we understand the social impact of new forms of communication and information diffusion from the advent of printing in fifteenth century Europe to the expansion of global communication networks today In this major new work Thompson addresses these and other questions by elaborating a distinctive social theory of communication media and their impact He argues that the development of communication media has transformed the spatial and temporal constitution of social life creating new forms of action and interaction which are no longer linked to the sharing of a common locale The consequences of this transformation are far reaching and impinge on many aspects of our lives from the most intimate aspects of personal experience and self formation to the changing nature of power and visibility in the public domain Combining breadth of vision with sensitivity to detail this book situates the study of the media where it belongs among a set of disciplines concerned with the emergence development and structural characteristics of modern societies and their futures The Media and Modernity John B. Thompson, 1995-01 The Media and Modernity John B. Thompson, 1995 In this major new work Thompson addresses these and other questions by elaborating a distinctive social theory of communication media and their impact

Emancipation, the Media, and Modernity Nicholas Garnham, 2000 This book adopts a polemical stance It approaches the problems raised by the media by way of a set of arguments with the two dominant paradigms now current for thinking about the media post modernism and Information Society theory It argues that the media are important because they raise a set of questions that have been central to social and political theory since the Enlightenment In a series of probes into different sets of questions raised by the media the argument of the book focuses on the problem raised by what Kant called the unsocial sociability of human kind Under what conditions could autonomous free individuals live in viable social communities Or to put it another way what are the related scope for and limits on human reason and emancipation In conducting this argument the book first argues for a necessarily historical perspective It then goes on to examine the implications for emancipation of seeing the media as cultural industries within the wider systems world of the capitalist market economy of seeing the media as technologies of the specialisation of intellectual production and of the separation and increasing social distance between the producers and consumers of symbols It then goes on to argue against current ethnographic trends in audience research and against the focus on everyday life for a reinstatement of interest in the statistical reality of audiences and effects and for a recognition through a return to the Hegelian roots of commodity fetishism and the symbolic interactionist creation of identities that an active audience can be actively involved in its own domination The argument then turns to the problem of how we evaluate the symbolic forms that the media circulate and whether such evaluation can be anything more than a matter of personal taste It is argued that evaluation is in practice unavoidable and without some standards that are more than just subjective any criticism of the media's performance is impossible Via an examination of the debate between the sociology of art and aesthetics it argues for the ethical foundations of aesthetic judgement and for the establishment of agreed standards of aesthetic judgement via the discourse ethic that underlies the argument of the entire book This foregrounding of the discourse ethic then leads on to a discussion of the media and politics Here the argument is that arguments about the media and politics are at the heart of arguments about politics itself These arguments focus it is argued upon the shifting division between the public and the private Here the book returns to the roots of public sphere theory in Rousseau's arguments for the centrality of public spectacle and Kant's argument for the centrality of public reason in the practice of democratic politics Media and Modernity Laura S. Emancipation, the Media, and Modernity Nicholas Garnham, 2000 Nicholas Garnham argues against the advocates of post modernity and the Information Society that we are not entering new historical era but that underlying debates about the media are a set of old cultural and political questions Walter Benjamin and the Media Jaeho Kang, 2014-07-29

Walter Benjamin 1892 1940 one of the most original and perceptive thinkers of the twentieth century offered a unique insight into the profound impact of the media on modern society Jaeho Kang's book offers a lucid introduction to Benjamin's theory of the media and its continuing relevance today The book provides a systematic and close reading of Benjamin's critical and provocative writings on the intersection between media from print to electronic and modern experience with reference to the information industry the urban spectacle and the aesthetic politics Bringing Benjamin's thought into a critical constellation with contemporary media theorists such as Marshall McLuhan and Jean Baudrillard the book helps students understand the implications of Benjamin's work for media studies today and how they can apply his distinctive ideas to contemporary media culture Kang's book leads to a fresh appreciation of Benjamin's work and new insight into critical theoretical approaches to media The book will be of particular interest to students and researchers not only in media and communication studies but also in cultural studies film studies and social theory who are seeking a readable overview of Benjamin's rich yet complex writings Mediatization of Communication Knut Lundby, 2014-08-25 This handbook on Mediatization of Communication uncovers the interrelation between media changes and changes in culture and society This is essential to understand contemporary trends and transformations Mediatization characterizes changes in practices cultures and institutions in media saturated societies thus denoting transformations of these societies themselves This volume offers 31 contributions by leading media and communication scholars from the humanities and social sciences with different approaches to mediatization of communication The chapters span from how mediatization meets climate change and contribute to globalization to questions on life and death in mediatized settings The book deals with mass media as well as communication with networked digital media The topic of this volume makes a valuable contribution to the understanding of contemporary processes of social cultural and political changes The handbook provides the reader with the most current state of mediatization research

Gender, Media and Modernity in the Asia-Pacific Catherine Driscoll, Meaghan Morris, 2015-10-14 This collection offers a range of cultural studies perspectives on the ways gender and modernity intersect in media produced in the Asia Pacific region It spans different ideas about modernity in the region different approaches to cultural analysis and different media forms from Taiwanese lifestyle television to avant garde Indian cinema from the emergence of a Chinese youth culture in online social networks to the alienation of country girls as imagined by Australian soap opera and from the fantastic politics of migrating bodies in Korean cinema to the masculine mimicry of fighting women in South East Asian action movies Together these essays explore the ways that media both records and helps produce images and experiences of modernity and the integral role gender plays in those processes This book was originally published as a special issue of Cultural Studies

Contemporary Political Protest Abby Peterson, 2018-02-06 This title was first published in 2001 An investigation of the new wave of militant political activity emerging across Europe The book examines the role of emotions in militant activity the way in which the body is implicated in militant political actions and the concept of media modernity as a precondition for the contemporary politics of militancy

Power of a Third Kind Hisham Nazer, 1999-08-30 This thought provoking book points out that the most significant change in international relations in the 20th century was not the defeat of communism nor the end of the Cold War but the huge advances in communications technologies Hisham Nazer a leading Saudi Arabian intellectual and petroleum industry leader argues that the West has used its control over these capabilities to superimpose its cultural and political values on the rest of the world CNN films and television and the Internet have become the means of promoting Western products including soft drinks detergents and even the ideals of democracy and human rights in relatively powerless non Western nations This process of creating a global culture through the propagation of Western political and philosophical constructs as world brands poses grave dangers for the entire international community As countries become aware of their exploitation the possibilities for frustration and violence become increasingly real Power of a Third Kind is directed toward Western and non Western leaders alike For the former it provides a new perspective from outside the mirror of our Western culture pointing out that current practices are actually endangering the security of our hemisphere The author calls on Western leaders to work on a dialogue with other societies as an alternative to exporting to them a monologue designed for passive absorption And for the latter this book will inspire them to steer out of their current course in time to protect their histories and the integrity of their cultures Through meaningful dialogue well meaning nations will find a way for the most beneficial aspects of Western culture self rule and basic human rights to evolve within the context of local cultures resulting in a world both more stable and more humane

Living the Information Society in Asia Erwin Alampay, 2009-04-14 Undeniably Asian societies are in a period of transition when people are learning to live with new information and communication technologies ICTs whether in commerce government or development work Living the Information Society in Asia describes the interaction of people and new ICTs as the technologies seep into everyday life such as how mobile phones forge relationships among families separated by migration how camera phones threaten personal space how cultural identities are strengthened in call centres and how religion is incorporated into the new communication technologies people use Living the Information society in Asia looks at the phenomenon as it unfolds and raises the implications for policy and future research

Losing the Plot Leon de Kock, 2016-09-01 In Losing the Plot well known scholar and writer Leon de Kock offers a lively and wide ranging analysis of postapartheid South African writing which he contends has morphed into a far more flexible and multifaceted entity than its predecessor If postapartheid literature's founding moment was the transition to democracy writing over the ensuing years has viewed the

Mandelan project with increasing doubt Instead authors from all quarters are seen to be reporting in different ways and from divergent points of view on what is perceived to be a pathological public sphere in which the plot the mapping and making of social betterment appears to have been lost The compulsion to detect forensically the actual causes of such loss of direction has resulted in the prominence of creative nonfiction A significant adjunct in the rise of this is the new media which sets up a wounded space within which a cult of commiseration compulsively and repeatedly plays out the facts of the day on people s screens This De Kock argues is reproduced in much postapartheid writing And although fictional forms persist in genres such as crime fiction with their tendency to overplot more serious fiction underplots yielding to the imprint of real conditions to determine the narrative construction Inter-organizational information exchange, supply chain compliance and performance Guangqian Peng,2023-09-04 Globalization of business markets and the rapid development of information technology are making information management more and more important By combining managerial and economic theory this book builds a framework to demonstrate facilitating factors for inter organizational information exchange and the effects of information exchange on supply chain compliance and business performance We have strong indications both theoretical and empirical that such an integrative conceptual framework is needed to grasp the complexity of information exchange between business partners Using empirical evidence from the poultry chain in Mainland China this book supports the complementary roles between contractual governance and trust in the process of improving the willingness to communicate It also proposes that communication quality needs to be broader than information quality Finally it illustrates that in order to stand out from main competitors companies should not only commit to realizing more potential communication benefits for themselves but also for their main partners Different solutions for buyers and suppliers in optimizing their business performance are also discussed This book is recommended for a broad audience of professionals practitioners and policy makers who concern themselves with information management supply chain management channel relationship management and performance management Gender and Modernity Kokusai Nihon Bunka Kenkyū Sentā,1998 Crime and Law in Media Culture Sheila Brown,2003 This work explores the situating of law and crime within the vast range and scope of contemporary media forms Sheila Brown shows how crime and the law or our understanding of them are produced reproduced disturbed and challenged in and through media culture
