needs a wider view and this book helps make comprehensible the European media within a broader global media landscape. The text is pedagogically rich and explores a variety of approaches to help the reader gain a better understanding of the European media world. Students are encouraged to start thinking about statistics relating this to economics, analysing regulations and combining media theories with theories of European Union integration. The book also includes the use of case studies, illustrations, summaries, critical reflections and directions to wider reading. The European Media in the Digital Age is recommended for all Media Studies students and is also of key interest to students of Politics and Policy Business Studies, International Studies and European Studies. Media and Maltese Society Carmen Sammut, 2007-01-01. This seminal work is the first comprehensive analysis of the media landscape in the Mediterranean island of Malta. It examines the media owned by political parties, trade unions and the church and how they successfully compete for audiences with the public and private sectors.

De-Westernizing Media Studies James Curran, Myung-Jin Park, 2005-07-05. De Westernizing Media Studies brings together leading media critics from around the world to address central questions in the study of the media: How do the media connect to power in society? Who and what influence the media? How is globalization changing both society and the media?

The NORDICOM Review of Nordic Mass Communication Research, 1990. Media and Power James Curran, 2012-12-06. Media and Power addresses three key questions about the relationship between media and society: How much power do the media have? Who really controls the media? What is the relationship between media and power in society? In this major new book, James Curran reviews the different answers which have been given before advancing original interpretations in a series of ground-breaking essays. This book also provides a guided tour of the major debates in media studies: What part did the media play in the making of modern society? How did new media change society in the past? Will radical media research recover from its mid-life crisis? Is public service television the dying product of the nation in an age of globalization? Media and Power provides both a clear introduction to media research and an innovative analysis of media power.
