Performing Piety Karin van Nieuwkerk, 2013-10-01 In the 1980s Egypt witnessed a growing revival of religiosity among large sectors of the population including artists Many pious stars retired from art repented from sinful activities and dedicated themselves to worship preaching and charity Their public conversions were influential in spreading piety to the Egyptian upper class during the 1990s which in turn enabled the development of pious markets for leisure and art thus facilitating the return of artists as veiled actresses or religiously committed performers Revisiting the story she began in A Trade like Any Other Female Singers and Dancers in Egypt Karin van Nieuwkerk draws on extensive fieldwork among performers to offer a unique history of the religious revival in Egypt through the lens of the performing arts She highlights the narratives of celebrities who retired in the 1980s and early 1990s including their spiritual journeys and their influence on the pietization of their fans among whom are the wealthy relatively secular strata of Egyptian society Van Nieuwkerk then turns to the emergence of a polemic public sphere in which secularists and Islamists debated Islam art and gender in the 1990s Finally she analyzes the Islamist project of art with a mission and the development of Islamic aesthetics questioning whether the outcome has been to Islamize popular art or rather to popularize Islam The result is an intimate thirty year history of two spheres that have tremendous importance for Egypt art production and piety The Life of John Milton: Narrated in Connexion with the Political, Ecclesiastical, and Literary History of His Time David Masson, 1873 The Child in Christian Thought Marcia J. artistic production and Islamic discourse in the Muslim world The contributors to this volume investigate the historical and structural conditions that impede or facilitate the emergence of a post Islamist cultural sphere They discuss the development of religious sensibilities among audiences which increasingly include the well to do and the educated young as well as the emergence of a local and global religious market At the heart of these essays is an examination of the intersection between cultural politics performing art and religion addressing such questions as where how and why pop culture and performing arts have been turned into a religious mission and whether it is possible to develop a new Islamic aesthetic that is balanced with religious sensibilities As we read about young Muslims and their quest for a cool Islam in music their struggle to quell their stigmatized status or the collision of morals and the marketplace in the arts a vivid varied new perspective on Muslim culture emerges
