Talking Culture Michael Moerman,1988 Argues that anyone anthropologist psychologist or policeman who uses what people say to find out what people think had better know how speech itself is organized Talking Culture Michael Moerman,2010-08-03 Argues that anyone anthropologist psychologist or policeman who uses what people say to find out what people think had better know how speech itself is organized Ethnomethodology, Conversation Analysis and Constructive Analysis Graham Button,Michael Lynch,Wes Sharrock,2022-09-23 This book revisits the arguments by which Harvey Sacks and Harold Garfinkel opposed the widespread attempt in the social sciences to construct disciplinary theories and methods in place of common sense knowledge of human action and proposed instead an alternative that would investigate the organised methods of natural language use and common sense reasoning that constitute social orders arguments that led to the establishment and proliferation of ethnomethodology and conversation analysis As the very constructive analysis that they opposed has begun to be incorporated into influential lines of research in ethnomethodology and conversation analysis the authors return to the founding insights of the field and reiterate the importance of Garfinkel and Sacks original and controversial proposals for an alternate sociology of practical action and practical reasoning Showing how constructive analysis has become entrenched in ethnomethodology and conversation analysis and arguing for a need to reboot these approaches this volume constitutes a call for a renewal of the radical alternative proposed by Garfinkel and Sacks
