Industrialization and Foreign Trade League of Nations. Economic, Financial, and Transit Department, 1945 The House of Tata Meets the Second Industrial Revolution Chikayoshi Nomura, 2018-04-12 This monograph aims to analyze the economic and business history of colonial India from a corporate perspective by clarifying the historical role of institutional developments based on archival evidence of a representative enterprise The perspective is distinctively unique in that it highlights the salience of corporate level institutional responses to explain the causes of colonial India's industrial growth in addition to two renowned perspectives focusing on government economic policy or factor endowment One of the driving forces of India's high growth rate since the 1980s is the expansion of modern business corporations whose origins date back to the colonial era in the mid nineteenth century This monograph explores the historical foundation of the growth of such corporations in colonial India guided by a substantial collection of documents of Tata Iron and Steel Company whose rich records have not received the due attention they have long deserved As clarified by numerous economic and business historians of leading industrialized countries since the works of Douglass North and Alfred Chandler this study as well proposes that the development of modern business corporations in colonial India was broadly supported by the reciprocal evolution of economic institutions and corporate organizations Adding a new perspective to the business and economic history of colonial India the analysis also provides an important case study of the development of corporate business in the non Western world to the study of global business history Analysis and Evaluation of Tariff and Non-tariff

The Economies of Southeast Asia Teofilo C. Daquila, 2005 This book analyses the growth development and crisis experiences of the Southeast Asian economies in particular Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines Singapore and Thailand also known as ASEAN 5 The proposition is developed that the robust economic performance of the Southeast Asian economies during the past four decades has been attributed to the various factors developments and independent national policies which have been pursued by the individual member countries rather than to any regional economic framework The book covers eleven topics which is suitable for a one semester course on the economics of Southeast Asia Also it has a narrower area coverage as it focuses only on the five economies namely Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines Singapore and Thailand The sectoral treatment of the crisis impact and the analytical treatment of policy responses to the crisis differentiate this book from other publications on the same topic Finally this book provides an analysis of national developments policies and factors which have contributed to the economic transformation of the respective Southeast Asian economies
