Cities and the Grand Tour Rosemary Sweet, 2012-10-04 A fascinating study of how British travellers experienced described and represented the cities they visited on the Grand Tour The Grand Tour Thomas Nugent, 1749

The Evolution of the Grand Tour Edward Chaney, 2000 The Grand Tour has emerged as a subject of importance for those interested in exploring the historic connections between nations and their intellectual and artistic production Although traditionally associated with the 18th century when it became de rigueur for wealthy Englishmen to complete their education on the continent the Grand Tour is here investigated in a wider context from the decline of the Roman Empire to recent times Travel to Italy was undertaken for many reasons Pilgrimage to Rome was encouraged by the religious rulers who succeeded the emperors Authors from Chaucer to Erasmus eventually mocked this custom and the Reformation sealed its fate where their co nationals were concerned but the urge to travel proved too strong to be extinguished by a mere change of religion From the mid 16th century northern Europeans justified travel to the south in terms of education The English has previously travelled to Italy to study classics now they travelled to learn Ital

Venice & the Grand Tour Bruce Redford, 1996-01-01 According to Bruce Redford the Tour offered a heady combination of aesthetic social political and sexual experience and it provided its alumni with a life long source of cultural and political authority Yet from the beginning the Tour was also viewed with deep suspicion it was feared that the very experiences that completed the British gentleman might well undo him

is frequently represented as synonymous with the institution of the Grand Tour a journey undertaken by elite young males from northern Europe to the centres of the arts and antiquity in Italy Taking a somewhat different perspective this volume builds upon recent research that pushes beyond this narrow orthodoxy and which decentres Italy as the ultimate destination of European travellers Instead it explores a much broader pattern of travel undertaken by people of varied backgrounds and with divergent motives for travelling By tapping into current reactions against the reification of the Grand Tour as a unique and distinctive practice this volume represents an important contribution to the ongoing process of resituating the Grand Tour as part of a wider context of travel and topographical writing Focusing upon practices of travel in northern and western Europe rather than in Italy particularly in Britain the Low Countries and Germany the essays in this collection highlight how itineraries continually evolved in response to changing political economic and intellectual contexts In so doing the reasons for travel in northern Europe are subjected to a similar level of detailed analysis as has previously only been directed on Italy By doing this the volume demonstrates the variety of travel experiences including the many shorter journeys made for pleasure health education and business undertaken by travellers of varying age and background across the period In this way the volume brings to the fore the experiences of varied categories of traveller from children to businessmen which have traditionally been largely invisible in the historiography of travel

The Grand Tour Diary of Frederica Murray, 1819-1820 Mark Guscini, 2024-01-15 In 1819 the Murray family set out on one of the last Grand Tours before railways forever changed the way people travelled The eldest daughter of the Second Earl of Mansfield Lady Frederica Murray later Stanhope as she married James Hamilton Stanhope the youngest son of the 3rd Earl of Stanhope kept a diary on the tour which this book explores in detail The diary has never been published not even mentioned in any of the Grand Tour literature and is a fascinating and essential look at the Murray Mansfield family and Europe at the time Frederica was a deeply observant traveller and noted down numerous picturesque and historical details she was also very open and sometimes even cutting in her opinions when she came across something or someone she did not like Frederica's diary shows a very mature 19 year old with clear opinions on art literature and the world around her This book will therefore be interesting for scholars of travel Grand Tours and Regency England and its society as well as anyone with an interest in travel and history
