The Foreign Investment Debate:

The Foreign Investment Debate Cynthia A. Beltz, 1995 Traditionally the United States has maintained an open door at home while promoting investment liberalization abroad through the negotiation of bilateral and regional treaties This strategy has paid off by boosting productivity and economic welfare at home while developing countries are moving at an unprecedented rate to emulate the successful open door policies of the United States There is also renewed interest in a multilateral set of rules for investment At the same time a new generation of U S laws and proposed regulations challenges the very foundation of America s open door namely the principles of national treatment and nondiscrimination This volume brings both sides of the debate together to examine the changing economic role of foreign investment the policy trends and the tools for reducing barriers to transnational investors The result is a provocative and informative discussion of the strategies and trade offs shaping the foreign investment debate

The Future of Foreign Investment in Canada Charles A. Barrett, Christopher C. Beckman, Duncan McDowall, Conference Board of Canada, 1985 From the Foreword The first report in the series established how foreign investors perceive Canada as a place to invest A second report focused on the actual mandate and operations of FIRA This report presents a considered evaluation of the future role of foreign investment in Canada Drawing on the Conference Board s acquired expertise in this field and on extensive outside consultations this report casts the foreign investment issue in a wide framework of economic and public policy considerations It aims to inform and guide public discussions by setting out the broad influences moulding the behaviour of foreign direct investment and by presenting an analysis of specific public policy options for dealing with the inflow of foreign investment

The Misery of International Law John Linarelli, Margot E Salomon, Muthucumaraswamy Sornarajah, 2018-03-23 Poverty inequality and dispossession accompany economic globalization Bringing together three international law scholars this book addresses how international law and its regimes of trade investment finance as well as human rights are implicated in the construction of misery and how international law is producing reproducing and embedding injustice and narrowing the alternatives that might really serve humanity Adopting a pluralist approach the authors confront the unconscionable dimensions of the global economic order the false premises upon which they are built and the role of international law in constituting and sustaining them Combining insights from radical critiques political philosophy history and critical development studies the book explores the pathologies at work in international economic law today International law must abide by the requirements of justice if it is to make a call for compliance with it but this work claims it drastically fails to do so In a legal order structured around neoliberal ideologies rather than principles of justice every state can and does grab what it can in the economic sphere on the basis of power and interest legally so and under colour of law This book examines how international law on trade and foreign investment and the law and norms on global finance has been shaped to benefit the rich and powerful at the expense of others It studies how a set of principles in the form of a New International Economic Order NIEO that could have laid the groundwork for a more inclusive international law without even disrupting its market orientation were nonetheless undermined As for international human rights law it is under the terms of global capitalism that human rights operate Before we can understand how human rights can create more just societies we must first expose the ways in which they reflect capitalist society and how they assist in reproducing the underlying terms of immiseration that will continue to create the need for human rights protection This book challenges conventional justifications of economic globalization and eschews false choices It is not about whether one is for or against international trade foreign investment or global finance The issue is to resolve how if we are to engage in trade investment and finance we do so in a manner that is accountable to persons whose lives are affected by international law The deployment of human rights for their part must be considered against the ubiquity of neoliberal globalization under law and not merely as a discrete benevolent response to it
