The Gospel According to the Harvard Business School P. Cohen,1975      The Gospel According to the Harvard Business School Peter Cohen,1974      Voltaire's Bastards John Ralston Saul,2013-07-02 Argues that blind faith in reason has resulted in problems in every phase of social life suggests reason is an administrative method rather than a moral force and proposes some solutions      Manufacturing Morals Michel Anteby,2024-05-31 Corporate accountability is never far from the front page and as one of the world's most elite business schools Harvard Business School trains many of the future leaders of Fortune 500 companies But how does HBS formally and informally ensure faculty and students embrace proper business standards Relying on his first hand experience as a Harvard Business School faculty member Michel Anteby takes readers inside HBS in order to draw vivid parallels between the socialization of faculty and of students In an era when many organizations are focused on principles of responsibility Harvard Business School has long tried to promote better business standards Anteby's rich account reveals the surprising role of silence and ambiguity in HBS's process of codifying morals and business values As Anteby describes at HBS specifics are often left unspoken for example teaching notes given to faculty provide much guidance on how to teach but are largely silent on what to teach Manufacturing Morals demonstrates how faculty and students are exposed to a system that operates on open ended directives that require significant decision making on the part of those involved with little overt guidance from the hierarchy Anteby suggests that this model which tolerates moral complexity is perhaps one of the few that can adapt and endure over time Manufacturing Morals is a perceptive must read for anyone looking for insight into the moral decision making of today's business leaders and those influenced by and working for them      Harvard Business School Bulletin ,2003      Mary's Voice in the Gospel According to John Michael Pakaluk,2021-02-16 A New Light on John's Gospel The Gospel according to John has always been recognized as different from the synoptic accounts of Matthew Mark and Luke But what explains the difference In this new translation and verse byverse commentary Michael Pakaluk suggests an answer and unlocks a twothousand year old mystery Mary's Voice in the Gospel according to John reveals the subtle but powerful influence of the Mother of Jesus on the fourth Gospel In his dying words Jesus committed his Mother to the care of John the beloved disciple who from that hour took her into his own home Pakaluk draws out the implications of that detail which have been overlooked for centuries In Mary's remaining years on earth what would she and John have talked about Surely no subject was as close to their hearts as the words and deeds of Jesus Mary's unique perspective and intimate knowledge of her Son must have shaped the account of Jesus life that John would eventually compose With the same scholarship imagination and fidelity that he applied to Mark's Gospel in The Memoirs of St Peter Pakaluk brings out the voice of Mary in John's from the famous prologue about the Incarnation of the Word to the Evangelist's closing avowal of the reliability of his account This remarkably fresh translation and commentary will deepen your understanding of the most sublime book of the New Testament      The New York Times Book Review
