This volume introduces readers to both the writer and his work with an emphasis on the characters, dates, events, motifs, and themes from the books. Myers's 101 A to Z entries offer concise analytical discussion on all topics and include generous citations from primary and secondary sources. Each entry concludes with a selected bibliography on such subjects as segregation, Malcolm X, urbanism, writing, metafiction, drugs, and alcohol, slavery, and the Vietnam War. Appendices offer a timeline of historical events in Myers's writings and forty topics for group or individual projects, oral analysis, background material, and theme development. A map of Harlem where many of the stories are set, genealogical diagrams for characters, and an author chronology contribute to a comprehensive presentation.

Exclusion and the Chinese American Story Sarah-Soon Ling
Blackburn, 2024-03-26 Until now you've only heard one side of the story but Chinese American history extends far beyond the railroads. Here's the true story of America from the Chinese American perspective. A Junior Library Guild Gold Standard Selection. If you've learned about the history of Chinese people in America, it was probably about their work on the railroads in the 1800s. But more likely you may not have learned about it at all. This may make it feel like Chinese immigration is a newer part of this country, but some scholars believe the first immigrant arrived from China 499 CE, one thousand years before Columbus did. When immigration picked up in the mid 1800s, efforts to ban immigrants from China began swiftly. But hope, strength, and community allowed the Chinese population in America to flourish. From the gold rush and railroads to entrepreneurs, animators, and movie stars, this is the true story of the Chinese American experience.

Codman Potter, Samuel Macauley Jackson, 1894 The Practice of U.S. Women's History S. J. Kleinberg, Eileen Boris, Vicki Ruiz, 2007 In the last several decades, U.S. women's history has come of age. Not only have historians challenged the national narrative on the basis of their rich explorations of the personal, the social, the economic, and the political, but they have also entered into dialogues with each other over the meaning of women's history itself. In this collection of seventeen original essays on women's lives from the colonial period to the present, contributors take the competing forces of race, gender, class, sexuality, religion, and region into account. Among many other examples, they examine how conceptions of gender shaped government officials' attitudes towards East Asian immigrants, how race and gender inequality pervaded the welfare state, and how color and class shaped Mexican American women's mobilization for civil and labor rights.

Reformed Church, Dutch, the Reformed Church, German, and the Moravian Church in the United States Edward Tanjore Corwin, Joseph Henry Dubbs, John Taylor Hamilton, 1895      Repositioning North American Migration History Marc S. Rodriguez, 2004 An in depth look at trends in North American internal migration. This volume gathers established and new scholars working on North American immigration, transmigration, internal migration, and citizenship whose work analyzes the development of migrant and state level institutions as well as migrant networks. With contemporary migration research most often focused on the development of transnational communities and the ways international migrants maintain relationships with their sending region that sustain the circular flow of people, ideas, and traditions across national boundaries, it is useful to compare these to similar patterns evident within the terrain of internal migration. To date, however, international and internal migration studies have unfolded in relative isolation from one another, with each operating within these distinct fields of expertise rather than across them. Although there has been some important linking, there has not been a recent major consideration of human migration that works across and within the various borders of the North American continent. Thus the volume presents a variety of chapters that seek to consider human migration in comparative perspective across the internal international divide. Marc S. Rodriguez is Assistant Professor of History at Princeton University. Donna R. Gabbaccia is the Mellon Professor of History at the University of Pittsburgh. James R. Grossman is the Vice President of Research and Education at the Newberry Library, Chicago. Contributors: Josef Barton, Wallace Best, Donna Gabbaccia, James Gregory, Tobias Higbie, Mae Ngai, Walter Nugent, Annelise Orleck, Kunal Parker, Kimberly Phillips, Bruno Ramirez, Marc Rodriguez. Repositioning North American Migration History is a volume in Studies in Comparative History, sponsored by Princeton University's Shelby Cullom Davis Center for Historical Studies.      A History of the American Nation Andrew Cunningham McLaughlin, 1899

The American Story Robert A. Divine, 2011. Designed for introductory level survey courses in American History. The American Story presents a balanced and manageable overview of the United States as an unfolding story of national development, integrating social and political history into a coherent and compelling narrative. Acknowledging the nation's rich diversity of class, race, gender, and ethnicity, this edition tells the story of the people who, through their collective and individual endeavors, have shaped the past through the demands historical events placed on them.
