Contested Natures Phil Macnaghten,John Urry,1998-03-06 Demonstrating that all notions of nature are inextricably entangled in different forms of social life the text elaborates the many ways in which the apparently natural world has been produced from within particular social practices These are analyzed in terms of different senses different times and the production of distinct spaces including the local the national and the global The authors emphasize the importance of cultural understandings of the physical world highlighting the ways in which these have been routinely misunderstood by academic and policy discourses They show that popular conceptions of and attitudes to nature are often contradictory and that there are no simple ways of prevailing upon people to save the environment

Caswell,2017-10-06 As a society we use more than 100 000 different industrial compounds to promote health and treat disease to grow food and to access clean water While technological developments have improved our lives most of these compounds end up in our oceans where they threaten marine life and human health The practice of ocean waste disposal has had a long history and was initially believed to have minimal associated costs However it is now clear that although we can use the oceans for cheap waste treatment we do this at the expense of the other key benefits we derive from the sea notably human food supplies as well as its aesthetic value including opportunities for recreation and tourism Many of the pollution problems of previous decades appear to have been solved in the developed world or at least managed to minimise their environmental impacts However despite treatment being available for some waste products a potent mixture of toxic compounds and other potentially harmful additions continue to enter the marine environment every day So have the problems of marine pollution really been solved or have we simply generated a suite of different and potentially more complex challenges In this volume we consider marine pollution from the perspective of the historical problems that are now successfully managed or solved the ongoing problems and the emerging challenges that we face These include hormone mimics the residues from pharmaceuticals nanometre sized particles added to new materials the millimetric plastics added to shampoos and cosmetics the artificial fibres in the clothes we wear and the noise and light pollution from our expanding industries and cities Marine Pollution is aimed at senior undergraduates masters and graduate level students studying marine sciences It will also serve as a useful reference for researchers and professionals working in the fields of environmental management marine planning marine environmental regulation and protection as well as those working for government departments environmental NGOs and marine environmental consultancies    International Environment Reporter ,2000    Greenpeace Clashes with Danes in North Sea G.
