Table Wines M. A. Amerine, M.A. Joslyn, 2021-01-08 This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1970 The University Wine Course Marian W. Baldy, Ph.D., 1997-05-01 Wine Analysis and Production Bruce Zoecklein, Kenneth C. Fugelsang, Barry H. Gump, Fred S. Nury, 2013-11-09 Winemaking as a form of food preservation is as old as civilization Wine has been an integral component of people's daily diet since its discovery and has also played an important role in the development of society religion and culture We are currently drinking the best wines ever produced We are able to do this because of our increased understanding of grape growing biochemistry and microbiology of fermentation our use of advanced technology in production and our ability to measure the various major and minor components that comprise this fascinating beverage Historically winemakers succeeded with slow but gradual improvements brought about by combinations of folklore observation and luck However they also had monumental failures resulting in the necessity to dispose of wine or convert it into distilled spirits or vinegar It was assumed that even the most marginally drinkable wines could be marketed This is not the case for modern producers The costs of grapes the technology used in production oak barrels corks bottling equipment etc have increased dramatically and continue to rise Consumers are now accustomed to supplies of inexpensive and high quality varietals and blends they continue to demand better Modern winemakers now rely on basic science and xvi Preface xvii the systematic application of their art to produce products pleasing to the increasingly knowledgeable consumer base that enjoys wine as part of its civilized society A Guide to the Elite Estates of the Mosel-Saar-Ruwer Wine Region Rudi Wiest, 1983 The Technology of Wine Making Maynard Andrew Amerine, Harold W. Berg, 1980 Abstract The revolution in the ancient art of wine making really began with Pasteur whose knowledge of chemistry and microbiology led to the application of scientific principles to the fermentation process The scientific approach continues to grow in importance although certain aspects of growing and fermenting grapes not to mention tasting the wine defy definition In an effort to keep abreast of this burgeoning technology an updated reference work explains commercial production techniques for all types of wine red white sparkling sherry port fruit and brandy and processes for avoiding bacterial and non bacterial spoilage Winery equipment and design the molds and yeasts of grapes and wines and the chemistry of fermentation are discussed in detail Although the major wine producing areas of the world are described emphasis is on American varieties both eastern and western Good, Better, Best Wines, 2nd Edition Carolyn Evans Hammond, 2018-11-13 Drink up this snobbery free guide to quickly finding which wines are worth your money Buying a popular wine should be simple not pretentious and expensive In this completely revised second edition wine expert Carolyn Evans Hammond compares the bestselling wines in

Zoecklein, 2012-12-06 This text is designed to acquaint the reader with the commonly used procedures of juice and wine analysis as they are generally practiced in the industry and as they are taught in the Department of Enology at California State University Fresno It is assumed that the reader has a basic preparation in the fields of chemistry and microbiology In developing material for this text the authors have emphasized analyses as they would be carried out in a production laboratory Realizing that different laboratories have different analytical capabilities personnel as well as equipment we have in many instances provided several different approaches to the same analysis Throughout this book we have attempted to give special attention to practical considerations and the importance of these analyses in the total spectrum of winery operations We hope the book s format will satisfy the interests of laboratory personnel as well as winemakers The process of making wine involves a series of concerns for the winemaker and staff of a winery The first concerns are viticultural Upon arrival of the fruit its quality is assessed grapes are processed and fermentation is begun Almost immediately and in many instances simultaneously chemical and microbiological stability of the young and or aging wine become important Finally problems do occur on occasion and a number of what may be considered remedial techniques can be employed to produce an acceptable product
