Hartmann,2023-05-13 This book presents an intellectual history and theoretical exploration of black humanism since the civil rights era Humanism is a human centered approach to life that considers human beings to be responsible for the world and its course of history Both the heavily theistic climate in the United States as well as the dominance of the Black Church are responsible for black humanism's existence in virtual oblivion For those who believe the world to be one without supernatural interventions human action matters greatly and is the only possible mode for change Humanists are thus committed to promoting the public good through human effort rather than through faith Black humanism originates from the lived experiences of African Americans in a white hegemonic society Viewed from this perspective black humanist cultural expressions are a continuous push to imagine and make room for alternative life options in a racist society Alexandra Hartmann counters religion's hegemonic grasp and uncovers black humanism as a small yet significant tradition in recent African American culture and cultural politics by studying its impact on African American literature and the ensuing anti racist potentials The book demonstrates that black humanism regards subjectivity as embodied and is thus a worldview that is characterized by a fragile hope regarding the possibility of progress racial and otherwise in the country      Looseleaf for

Iris Murdoch's Fables of Unselfing David J. Gordon, 1995 Like Jane Austen and Henry James but also like Fyodor Dostoevsky and Simone Weil Iris Murdoch is a keen student of those egoistic obsessions that cloud our moral understanding

In Iris Murdoch's Fables of Unselfing David J Gordon probes more deeply and comprehensively than any previous critic the intellectual energies and the ethical imperative of unselfing that inform her fiction. Gordon contends that the term fable best describes the kind of novel Murdoch writes because in each a mythmaking purpose interacts with a commitment to realism shaping the erotic life of fictional characters into a spiritual pilgrimage on which they struggle more or less unsuccessfully to overcome the self-centeredness that keeps them away from the Good. The most original element in the fiction, Gordon argues, is not its striking modernization of Plato or its adaptations of nineteenth-century influences but its intensely creative struggle with Freud. In developing his analysis of her themes, Gordon draws on Murdoch's work from throughout her forty-year career, showing how each novel grew out of its predecessors and in what ways each is original.

Faith, Reason, and Power in the Early Modern World Gloria K. Fiero, 1998. In Volume Four, readers are exposed to the cornerstones of the early modern world from the age of the Baroque to the art, music, and culture of the eighteenth century. As in previous volumes, the author presents lively discussion accompanied by literary excerpts and examples to illuminate a variety of topics, including Catholicism's global reach, the birth of modern philosophy, the political theories of Hobbes and Locke, the Enlightenment, and the music of Haydn and Mozart, to name a few.
