Business Studies September Trial 2014 Gauteng:

Global Business Education Paul R. Carlile, Steven H. Davidson, Howard Thomas, 2025-12-09 How can business education enhance value for students employers and the rest of society How will technology continue to challenge the model of business education And how can academia and industry collaborate to make sure that students develop important leadership and management competencies These are just some of the critical questions facing business school leaders educators and industry experts today This book the first in a two book series to articulate the rationale and method for developing a series of global conversations through a jam process to address the most pressing issues in business education today looks specifically at the issue of regional requirements and necessary contextual variation in approaches With insights from some of the leading business school deans and educators Global Business Education An Innovative Dialogue focuses on the discussion and paths taken that led to the creation of the innovative concept of a distributed regional model of jams This will include the background on the first jam the rationale and design of the regional jams and present the outcomes of the ten global dialogues This book is important for all business school leaders and educators who wish to gain insight into innovative methods for determining new directions in business education

Business School Research Eric Cornuel, Howard Thomas, Matthew Wood, 2024-02-05 This second book in the EFMD Management Education series explores business schools increasing focus on and search for meaningful societal and economic research impact This involves in particular co operation and collaboration in both knowledge creation and implementation of the findings of academic research in practice Business schools have a critical role to play in rewiring our missions for research relevance impact and reach and in recognising needs and addressing real issues of society and economy With cases from a range of international business schools the book doesn't simply highlight the need for the dominant research model in business schools to evolve but illustrates how this can happen in practice In so doing it opens the discussion on how the business school can contribute in very real ways to solving global and complex challenges such as climate change rising inequalities international isolationism eroding democratic systems and the spread of fake news These are goals that the EFMD has championed since its inception and this book will be of value and interest to policy makers and business leaders seeking insight into how management education will be shaped to support business and wider society as well as those working in business schools and higher education leaders The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4 0 license

Aviation Safety and Security Simon Bennett, 2015-09-01 On March 27 1977 at Los Rodeos airport in Tenerife 583 people were killed when two Boeing 747s collided According to investigators poor flight deck teamwork contributed to the disaster Shocked by the unprecedented loss of life the airline industry set about equipping pilots and flight engineers with teamworking skills The industry's teamwork training programme commonly known as Crew Resource Management CRM has helped make aviation one of the safest forms of transportation CRM's migration into military aviation has helped reduce mishaps by 50% 81% According to academics Robyn Clay Williams, David Greenfield, Judy Stone and Jeffrey Braithwaite in health care CRM has helped secure modest improvements in levels of patient safety. This monograph makes the case for teamwork training. Case studies for example of the salvaging of a crippled DC 10 by Captain Al Haynes and his crew show the benefits of teamworking. The monograph also promotes leadership skills in the final analysis every team requires a leader who can set the right example, inspire, canvass, coordinate, appraise and represent. Finally the monograph makes the case for creative thinking and active learning. Teams should be crucibles for new thinking. A team whose leader encourages reflection and creativity has the potential to change the status quo for the better. Witness how Apollo 13's Flight Director, the legendary Gene Kranz inspired an occasionally fractious group of ground engineers. Fatigue affects performance and mood to improvise an air purifier from log book covers, spare filters, hoses and duct tape. Kranz's ability to organise, lead, cajole and inspire saved the lives of the Apollo 13 astronauts. Kranz's leadership and focus ensured his engineers realised their potential.

The Innovative Business School Daphne Halkias, Michael Neubert, Paul W. Thurman, Chris Adendorff, Sameh Abadir, 2020-11-01. The Innovative Business School formulates a blueprint for the innovative business school of the next decade with proposed areas of innovation which will train executives to transform the coming technological disruptions into an avenue for world economic development and prosperity. Offering a new model of business education the book maps the way forward for business school innovators in exploring questions related to innovation and strategy needed on the part of academic and industry leaders and educators across demographic divides. The chapters cover an overall international and cross cultural approach in examining the factors at play for business schools of the future and the challenges they face across a range of megatrends affecting today's business environment. The authors impress the need for stakeholders to strategically engage others in the business and education ecosystems through commitment to experimentation, innovation and sustainable business strategy. Identifying such opportunities for development of a new model for business schools is important to educators and policymakers in preparing to leverage and contribute to existing megatrends to create shared value for regional economies and in new directions. The Innovative Business School is written for business schools management and decision makers, related stakeholders, universities, accreditation agencies and postgraduate students.
