

One Hundred Love Sonnets: XVII

BY PABLO NERUDA

TRANSLATED BY MARK EISNER

I don't love you as if you were a rose of salt, topaz,
or arrow of carnations that propagate fire:

I love you as one loves certain obscure things,
secretly, between the shadow and the soul.

I love you as the plant that doesn't bloom but carries

the light of those flowers, hidden, within itself,
and thanks to your love the tight aroma that arose
from the earth lives dimly in my body.

I love you without knowing how, or when, or from where,

I love you directly without problems or pride:

I love you like this because I don't know any other
way to love,

except in this form in which I am not nor are you,
so close that your hand upon my chest is mine,
so close that your eyes close with my dreams.

Sonnets To Orpheus*book One:

Sonnets to Orpheus Rainer Maria Rilke, 2012-01-01 Sonnets to Orpheus is Rainer Maria Rilke's first and only sonnet sequence. It is an undisputed masterpiece by one of the greatest modern poets translated here by a master of translation David Young Rilke revived and transformed the traditional sonnet sequence in the Sonnets. Instead of centering on love for a particular person as has many other sonneteers, he wrote an extended love poem to the world, celebrating such diverse things as mirrors, dogs, fruit, breathing, and childhood. Many of the sonnets are addressed to two recurrent figures: the god Orpheus, prototype of the poet, and a young dancer whose death is treated elegiacally. These ecstatic and meditative lyric poems are a kind of manual on how to approach the world, how to understand and love it. David Young's is the first most sensitive of the translations of this work, superior to other translations in sound and sense. He captures Rilke's simple, concrete and colloquial language writing with a precision close to the original.

The Muse that Sings Ann McCutchan, 2003 The Muse That Sings is a unique behind the scenes look at both twentieth century music and the nuts and bolts of creative work. Here twenty five of America's leading composers from Adams to Zorn from Bolcom to Vierk talk candidly about their craft, their motivations, their difficulties and how they proceed from musical idea to finished composition. While focusing on the process and the stories behind specific works, the composers also touch on topics that will interest anyone involved in creative work. They discuss teachers and mentors, the task of revision, relationships with performers and the ongoing struggle for a balance between freedom and discipline. They reveal sources of inspiration, artistic goals and the often unexpected ways their musical ideas develop. Some describe personal tonal systems, others discuss the impact of computers and other electronic tools on their work, still others reflect philosophically on the inner impulses and outer influences that continue to drive them. While serious music has a reputation for being difficult and inaccessible, The Muse That Sings provides a powerful antidote. The composers in this book speak clearly and thoughtfully in response to key questions of concern to all readers interested in contemporary music. Each interview has been edited to stand alone as a concise meditation on muse and technique, and the book includes selected discographies as well as brief biographical sketches. Anyone with an interest in twentieth century music or in the creative process will find this lively collection a valuable source of inspiration and insight.

The Dark Interval Rainer Maria Rilke, 2018-09-06 From one of the most famous poets in history comes a new selection of writings to bereaved friends and acquaintances, providing comfort in a time of grief and words to soothe the soul. A treasure, the solace Rilke offers is uncommon, uplifting and necessary. OBSERVER Throughout his life, the poet Rainer Maria Rilke addressed letters to individuals who were close to him, who had contacted him after reading his works or who he had met briefly, anyone with whom he felt an inner connection. Within his vast correspondence, there are about two dozen letters of condolence. In these direct, personal and practical letters, Rilke writes about loss and mortality, assuming the role of a sensitive, serious and uplifting guide through life's difficulties. He consoles a friend on the loss of her nephew, which she experienced like the loss of her own child a mentor on the death of her dog and an acquaintance struggling to cope with the end of a friendship The result is a profound vision of mourning and a meditation on the role of pain in our lives as well as a soothing guide for how to get through it Where things become truly difficult and unbearable we find ourselves in a place already very close to its transformation

The Sonnets to Orpheus Rainer Maria Rilke,1986 Breathing you invisible poem World space in pure continuous interchange with my own being Equipoise in which I rhythmically transpire Written only four years before Rilke s death this sequence of sonnets varied in form yet consistently structured stands as the poet s final masterwork In these meditations on the constant flux of our world and the ephemerality of experience Rilke envisions death not only as one among many of life s transformations but also as an ideally receptive state of being Because Orpheus has visited the realm of death and returned to the living his lyre a unifying presence in these poems is an emblem of fluidity and musical transcendence And Eurydice condemned to Hades as a result of Orpheus s backward glance becomes in Rilke s universe a mythical figure of consolation and hope Edward Snow in his translations of New Poems The Book of Images Uncollected Poems and Duino Elegies has emerged as Rilke s most able English language interpreter Adhering faithfully to the intent of Rilke s German while constructing nuanced colloquial poems in English Snow s Sonnets to Orpheus should serve as the authoritative translation for years to come

Ecocriticism and Chinese Literature Riccardo Moratto,Nicoletta Pesaro,Di-kai Chao,2022-03-10 Focusing on ecocritical aspects throughout Chinese literature particularly modern and contemporary Chinese literature the contributors to this book examine the environmental and ecological dimensions of notions such as qing and jing Chinese modern and contemporary environmental writing offers a unique aesthetic perspective toward the natural world Such a perspective is mainly ecological and allows human subjects to take a benign and nonutilitarian attitude toward nature The contributors to this book demonstrate how Chinese literary ecology tends toward an ecological systemic holism from which all human behaviors should be closely examined They do so by examining a range of writers and genres including Liu Cixin s science fiction Wu Ming yi s environmental fiction and Zhang Chengzhi s historical narratives This book provides valuable insights for scholars and students looking to understand how Chinese literature conceptualizes the relationship between humanity and nature as well as our role and position within the natural realm

Duino Elegies Rainer Maria Rilke,2014-01-01 The cycle of 55 sonnets that comprise Rainer Maria Rilke's Sonnets to Orpheus were written in a period of three weeks during 1922 a time which the poet himself described as a savage creative storm Inspired by the death of his daughter's friend Wera Knoop Rilke commenced to the production of Sonnets to Orpheus a work filled with mythological and biblical allusions During the same burst of creative energy he set to working on the completion of the Duino Elegies a work begun some ten years earlier but set aside due to Rilke's own emotional distress over the tragic events of World War I and his conscription into the Austro Hungarian army He wrote in a letter to the deceased girl's mother that Wera's ghost was commanding and impelling him to write The results of this savage creative storm are generally considered as Rilke's masterpieces Duino Elegies is an intensely spiritual group of verses that ponders the beauty and existential suffering of life Together these works exhibit why Rilke is widely recognized as one of the most lyrically intense of all German language poets
