and monarchs debated the reality and the morality of magic and by extension the limits of human power In this way early modern English writing about magic was closely related to the scientific and political philosophical writing from the period which was likewise reimagining humanity's relationship to nature Moore reads Thomas Hobbes's Leviathan alongside contemporary writing by the notorious witch hunters Matthew Hopkins and John Stearne He reminds us that Francis Bacon's scientific works were addressed to King James I whose own Demonologie insists on the reality of witchcraft The fantastical science fiction of Margaret Cavendish he argues must be understood within a tradition that includes works like Christopher Marlowe's Doctor Faustus and the peculiar autobiography of criminal astrologer Simon Forman By considering these disparate works together Moore reveals the centrality of magic to the early modern project
