Ponsonby,2016-04-15 Many historic houses that open to the public in England and Wales particularly those owned by the National Trust preserve their contents rather than restore them to a particular period The former owners of these houses often retained objects from various periods and this layering of history produces interiors that look aged and patinated Although the reason for this preservation and lack of fashionable renewable can be attributed to declining economic fortunes in the twentieth century there are many examples of families practising this method of homemaking over a much longer period Taking National Trust properties as its central focus this book examines three interlocking themes to examine the role of historic textiles Firstly it looks at houses with preserved contents together with the reasons for individual families choosing this lifestyle secondly the role of the National Trust as both guardian and interpreter of these houses and their collections and finally and most importantly the influence of textiles to contribute to the appearance of interiors and their physical attributes that carry historical resonances of the past The importance of preserved textiles in establishing the visual character of historic houses is a neglected area and therefore the prominence given to textiles in this project constitutes an original contribution to the study of these houses Drawing upon a range of primary sources including literature produced by the National Trust for their sites and documentary sources for the families and their houses such as diaries letters and household accounts the study takes a broad approach that will be of interest to all those with an interest in material culture heritage collecting studies and cultural history European Tapestry in the Minneapolis Institute of Arts Minneapolis Institute of Arts,Candace Adelson,1994 The internationally acclaimed European tapestry collection in The Minneapolis Institute of Arts comprises forty one pieces designed and woven between the fifteenth and eighteenth centuries representing all the major tapestry weaving centers Flanders France Germany Holland Italy and Norway European Tapestry in The Minneapolis Institute of Arts is the first complete documentation of this outstanding and unusually varied collection Candace Adelson is a leading European tapestry scholar and the author of numerous articles and exhibition catalogue texts In this book she describes in detail how European tapestry was created and marketed explains the techniques of tapestry weaving and defines technical terms Then she analyzes the Institute s pieces individually exploring in depth each tapestry s subject symbolism history and design and listing related works The result is an invaluable record of a fragile legacy Everyone interested in learning more about Western culture and the fascinating world of European tapestry will find this extensively researched lucidly written and abundantly illustrated catalogue enlightening The Postprints of the Image Re-integration Conference A.
