North American Temperate Deciduous Forest Responses to Changing Precipitation Regimes Paul Hanson,Stan D. Wullschleger,2012-12-06 Large scale experimentation allows scientists to test the specific responses of ecosystems to changing environmental conditions Researchers at Oak Ridge National Laboratory together with other Federal and University scientists conducted a large scale climatic change experiment at the Walker Branch Watershed in Tennessee a model upland hardwood forest in North America This volume synthesizes mechanisms of forest ecosystem response to changing hydrologic budgets associated with climatic change drivers The authors explain the implications of changes at both the plant and stand levels and they extrapolate the data to ecosystem level responses such as changes in nutrient cycling biodiversity and carbon sequestration In analyzing data they also discuss similarities and differences with other temperate deciduous forests Source data for the experiment has been archived by the authors in the U S Department of Energy's Carbon Dioxide Information and Analysis Center CDIAC for future analysis and modeling by independent investigators

Temperate Deciduous Forests Ernst Röhrig,Bernhard Ulrich,1991 This volume treats a plant formation which is distributed in America Asia and Europe There is a general introduction which differentiates the temperate deciduous forests from adjacent plant formations characterize the climatic factors under which these deciduous ecosystems have developed and consider the flora of such systems in relation to post Pleistocene history A characteristic feature of temperate deciduous forests is the shedding of leaves prior to the cold season of the year so that these forests are seasonally distinctive Because of different ecological conditions very different stand structures are found within deciduous forests and these change during the course of succession These features have a significant influence on animal populations which are presented in detail A major portion of the book is devoted to the description of the regional deciduous forests beginning with the flora and fauna of North America for which a large volume of research results and literature exists In the following chapters flora radiating out of North America Mexico and Central America is treated and the flora and fauna of Europe In the last chapters the unusual occurrence of temperate deciduous forest in the Southern Hemisphere South America is discussed Visualizing Environmental Science David M. Hassenzahl, Mary Catherine Hager, Linda R. Berg, 2017-11-06 The 5th Edition of Visualizing Environmental Science provides students with a valuable opportunity to identify and connect the central issues of environmental science through a visual approach. Beautifully illustrated, this fifth edition shows students what the discipline is all about: its main concepts and applications, while also instilling an appreciation and excitement about the richness of the subject. This edition is thoroughly refined and expanded: the visuals utilize insights from research on student learning and feedback from users.

Environment Peter H. Raven, Linda R. Berg, David M. Hassenzahl, 2012-12-17 Raven's 8th edition of Environment offers more detailed content than the Visualizing text for a better understanding and integration of the core environmental systems and to view and analyze the role those systems play. Shorter but still comprehensive coverage focuses on ethical decision making and key local environmental science issues, requiring readers to think critically about the course material outside of the classroom. Other features include brief text in the comprehensive segment, extensive chapter pedagogy to help reinforce the systems approach, more opportunities to think critically about how systems intersect and fit together, and new data interpretation questions at the end of each chapter.
