Frank W. Green

The Giant And The Mouse:

The Giant and the Mouse Diane Stelling, 1997

The Giant and the Mouse Sandra Saer, Martin

Hargreaves, 2003-01-01 This is a book of nine stories written for the author's children aged four to eight. The first was told to primary school children in the class of her five-year-old son Ben. The class teacher Jane wanted me to go in and tell stories to make Ben feel proud and make friends more quickly at his new school. I totally forgot about the engagement until reminded by Jane on the morning I was due to go in. Arriving breathless I was given a chair to sit on and looked down at a sea of expectant little faces. I had nothing written down. NOT AN IDEA IN MY HEAD. But from somewhere I heard myself saying: Once upon a time there was a giant and there was a mouse. They lived together in a house shaped like a knee sock. The mouse had the flat at the top. The giant had most of the foot part of the house because it was longer. And away I went. Pure inspiration. That was twenty-eight years ago. The book was nearly published many times and finally having met a brilliant children's book illustrator Martin Hargreaves she decided to publish the C M herself. Uncannily Martin visualised the two main characters: the bustling house proud scolding mouse and the laid-back fun-loving giant just as she did producing beautiful paintings for nearly every page to illustrate amusing and sometimes unexpected episodes in their life together. Things have come full circle. Her book has been hailed as a new children's classic and Sandra reads from it to primary school and home-educated children all over the country.

Handbook of Ultrasonic Vocalization Stefan M Brudzynski, 2018-04-27 Handbook of Ultrasonic Vocalization Window into the Mammalian Brain Volume 25 is an exhaustive resource on ultrasonic vocalizations in vertebrates providing full coverage of all aspects of these vocalizations. The book also demonstrates the usefulness of ultrasonic vocalizations in studies of animal communication, sociobiological states and in mammalian models of affective disorders, addictions and neurodevelopmental disorders making it an indispensable resource for researchers using animal models. The book begins with the evolution of vocal communication before discussing mechanisms of ultrasound production, perception and the brain systems involved in emotional arousal that are responsible for the generation of vocalization and emotional states. In addition, the book covers studies of neuroactive agents and sociopsychological conditions that can regulate the outcome of ultrasonic vocalization and provide clues about animals' internal states. Critically, the book also includes thorough coverage of pharmacological investigations using ultrasonic vocalizations increasingly being utilized for studies in affective disorders, psychoses, addiction and alcoholism. No other book provides such extensive coverage of this rapidly growing field of study. Represents a multidisciplinary approach that incorporates evolution, communication, behavioral homeostasis, emotional expression and neuropsychiatric dysfunction. Provides a systematic review of ultrasonic vocalizations in major groups of rodents widely used in laboratory research. Discusses numerous other species across vertebrates that emit ultrasounds.
