The Golden Triangle Maurice Leblanc, 2021-12-24 The Golden Triangle Maurice Leblanc A clock struck half past six At that moment the door of one of the houses overlooking the square opened A man came out closed the door behind him crossed the Rue de Chaillot and walked round the open space in front of the museum It was an officer in khaki Under his red forage cap with its three lines of gold braid his head was wrapped in a wide linen bandage which hid his forehead and neck He was tall and very slenderly built His right leg ended in a wooden stump with a rubber foot to it He leant on a stick Traders of the Golden Triangle Andrew Forbes, David Henley, 2013-02-03 During the latter half of the twentieth century the little known and often lawless region where Laos Burma Thailand and China meet has become known and widely romanticised as The Golden Triangle Originally a Western designation applied to the region because of its wealth in jade silver rubies lumber rare animal products and above all opium the name has stuck and is today accepted both in Chinese and in Thai By reputation by very definition the area is off the beaten track The home of drug warlords arms dealers insurgent armies latter day slave traders and plain old fashioned bandits it is also the home of an extraordinarily wide range of colourful ethnic minorities many still only partly known and understood and a veritable Tower of Babel linguistically 36 500 words 70 historical images 46 contemporary images 5 maps Bibliography

The Golden Triangle Ko-lin Chin, 2010-12-15 The Golden Triangle region that joins Burma Thailand and Laos is one of the global centers of opiate and methamphetamine production Opportunistic Chinese businessmen and leaders of various armed groups are largely responsible for the manufacture of these drugs The region is defined by the apparently conflicting parallel strands of criminality and efforts at state building a tension embodied by a group of individuals who are simultaneously local political leaders drug entrepreneurs and members of heavily armed militias Ko lin Chin a Chinese American criminologist who was born and raised in Burma conducted five hundred face to face interviews with poppy growers drug dealers drug users armed group leaders law enforcement authorities and other key informants in Burma Thailand and China The Golden Triangle provides a lively portrait of a region in constant transition a place where political development is intimately linked to the vagaries of the global market in illicit drugs Chin explains the nature of opium growing heroin and methamphetamine production drug sales and drug use He also shows how government officials who live in these areas view themselves not as drug kingpins but as people who are carrying the responsibility for local economic development on their shoulders

Merchants of Madness Bertil Lintner, Michael Black, 2009-01-05 For decades Southeast Asia's Golden Triangle where the borders of Thailand Laos and Burma intersect has been infamous for its opium and heroin production But then in the 1990s the drug gangs in the Golden Triangle began to produce methamphetamine a synthetic drug that does not depend on any unreliable crop such as the opium poppy In Thailand the drug has become known as yaba madness drug or madness medicine Unlike heroin which is a downer yaba or speed is an upper that makes those who take it hyperactive and often aggressive It has led to murders stabbings and the kidnapping of innocent people It breaks down the users mentally as well as physically It is a real madness drug But who are the merchants of this madness This book provides the answer It is based on extensive research spanning several decades and including a collection of first hand accounts of the drug trade from law enforcement officers and intelligence officials alike as well as sources close to the drug traffickers themselves This book will lead to a better understanding of the Golden Triangle drug trade how it all began and how it has grown to become a multi billion dollar criminal enterprise

The Haw Andrew Forbes, David Henley (Photographer), 1997 The Golden Triangle region where Burma Thailand Laos and China meet has long been a lawless region home to wandering tribes drug warloads arms dealers and plain old fashioned bandits Yet within this widely romanticized region one group the Yunnanese Chinese or Haw have established themselves as cultural mediators and merchants par excellence penetrating the area with their armed mule caravans For centuries past and down to the present day the Haw have been the unrivaled masters of the Golden Triangle This volume is a comprehensive survey of the Haw life and customs its past present and future

Chasing the Dragon Christopher R. Cox, 2014-05-13 Chasing the Dragon is the story of a Boston Herald reporter's journey into Burma Myanmar to interview the mysterious drug lord Khun Sa The features desk of an American newspaper may seem an unlikely launchpad for a journey into one of the world's most remote and dangerous regions but for journalist Christopher Cox it was where the story began It would end nearly three years later in the almost inaccessible mountain fastnesses of Shan State Burma as Cox brought off a journalistic coup even hard bitten foreign correspondents might envy a rare personal audience with General Khun Sa the man U S law enforcement dubbed The Prince of Death the man thought to control a third of the world's supply of heroin Accompanied by an obsessed Vietnam vet who had given up everything in his single minded search for American POWs left behind in Southeast Asia and an eccentric expat with close personal ties to the general Cox was going to cross forbidden borders to enter a region long off limits to Westerners And armed with little more than a backpack stuffed with vodka porno tapes and cigarettes he was going to succeed His journey would take him deep into the Golden Triangle a shadowy zone of banditry drug smuggling and the ghost armies of past wars He would begin in the red light district of Bangkok with its sex bars and soaring HIV rates then head up into northern borderlands newly discovered by package tour groups and finally cross a jungled no man's land into the world of the Shan where tough tribesmen trade opium and precious gemstones for the arms they need to fight the Burmese

Cashing in Across the Golden Triangle Thein Swe, Paul Chambers, 2011 Historically the Golden Triangle on the Mekong River has been a strategic yet largely impoverished crossroads between China Laos Thailand and Burma This book considers the new transnational economic corridors connecting northern Thailand and south western China via key border towns in Myanmar and Laos Improved highways and ports have transformed towns and districts bringing an influx of Chinese investment tourism and population movements tracery culminating in the rose window In view of the multivalency of the symbolism the investigation establishes systematic occurrences of it which strongly suggest patterns of thought underlying systems of design The book concludes with a series of test cases which show the after life of the same symbolism as it overlapped with the Renaissance The Berkshire News ,1969
