Task Force 57 Peter C. Smith, 1969      Task Force 57 Peter C. Smith, 1994      Task Force 57 Peter Charles Smith, 1969      The Marshalls United States. Marine Corps, Robert Debs Heinl, 1954      Allies against the Rising Sun Nicholas Evan Sarantakes, 2009-10-27

In the annals of World War II the role of America's British allies in the Pacific Theater has been largely ignored. Nicholas Sarantakes now revisits this seldom studied chapter to depict the delicate dance among uneasy partners in their fight against Japan offering the most detailed assessment ever published of the U.S. alliance with Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, and Canada. Sarantakes examines Britain's motivations for participating in the invasion of Japan, the roles envisioned by its Commonwealth nations, and the United States' decision to accept their participation. He shows how the interests of all allies were served by maintaining the coalition even in the face of disputes between nations, between civilian and military leaders, and between individual services, and that allied participation, despite its diplomatic importance, limited the efficiency of final operations against Japan. Sarantakes describes how Churchill favored British-led operations to revive the colonial empire, while his generals argued that Britain would be further marginalized if it didn't fight alongside the United States in the assault on Japan's home islands. Meanwhile, Commonwealth partners, preoccupied with their own security concerns, saw an opportunity to support the mother country in service of their own separatist ambitions. And even though the United States called the shots, it welcomed allies to share the predicted casualties of an invasion. Sarantakes takes readers into the halls of both civil and military power in all five nations to show how policies and actions were debated, contested, and resolved. He not only describes the participation of major heads of state but also brings in lesser-known Commonwealth figures, plus a cast of military leaders including General of the Army Douglas MacArthur and Fleet Admiral Chester Nimitz on the American side, and Admiral of the Fleet Sir Andrew Cunningham and Field Marshal Sir Alan Brooke on the British. He also paints vivid scenes of battle, including the attack of the British Pacific Fleet on Japan and ground fighting on Okinawa. Deftly blending diplomatic, political, and military history encompassing naval, air, and land forces, Sarantakes's work reveals the political factors in warfare alliances and explains why the Anglo-American coalition survived World War II when it had collapsed after World War I.

King George V-Class Battleships Daniel Knowles, 2022-04-08

Following the First World War, the major naval powers entered into an agreement restricting the construction of capital ships and limiting the numbers that signatories were allowed to maintain, so numerous ships were scrapped or disposed of, and the majority of planned vessels were either cancelled whilst being built or never laid down. By the late 1920s, the Royal Navy's battle force comprised of the two Nelson-class ships, the battlecruisers Hood, Renown, and Repulse, and Revenge, and Queen Elizabeth-class ships, all designed before the First World War. In 1928, the Royal Navy began planning a new class of battleships, which was put on hold with the signing of the Treaty of London. In 1935, realising its battle fleet was becoming dated as other nations laid down new classes of battleships, the Royal Navy recommenced planning.

capital ships within treaty limitations The result was the King George V class battleships Regarded by some as the worst new generation battleships in the Second World War the King George V class were Britain's most modern battleships during the conflict and saw action in some of the most famous engagements from the sinking of the Bismarck in 1941 to the surrender of Japan in 1945 This book charts the story of the King George V class from its conception and design through to the operational history of the ships in the class      United States Army in World War II ,2005      British Pacific Fleet 1944-45 Brian Lane Herder,2023-11-23 An illustration packed new account of the powerful Royal Navy fleet that fought alongside the US Navy throughout the last year of the Pacific War The British Pacific Fleet was the Royal Navy's primary contribution to the direct defeat of Japan in 1945 and is among the most powerful fleets Britain has ever sent into action With naval supremacy in home waters achieved by 1944 many of the best and most modern ships in the Royal Navy could be sent to the Pacific including battleships submarines light forces replenishment groups and shore establishment However the main striking force was the fast carrier force Illustrated throughout with dramatic new artwork 3D diagrams maps and archive photos this book explains how the Royal Navy joined the Pacific carrier war and how the fleet adopted the US Navy's ruthlessly effective fast carrier doctrine With ships optimized for short range operations in the Atlantic and Mediterranean the BPF had to rapidly adapt to the long range high tempo warfare of the Pacific and the story is often one of inspired improvisation The BPF shared the US Navy's terrifying experience of kamikaze strikes and famously its armoured carriers proved tougher than the US counterparts With discussion of the ships their technology how the fleet was organized and commanded and how it fought the campaign this book is a fascinating exploration of the Royal Navy's part in the victory over Japan      Federal Land, Western Anger R.
