Tenting Tonight:

Drifting Mike Freeman, 2011-09-01 This candid account of the author's two week canoe trip down the Hudson River offers an introspective and humorous look at both the river and Recession Era America. New to fatherhood and fresh from ten years in an Alaskan village, Mike Freeman sets out to relearn his country and realizes it's in a far greater midlife crisis than he could ever be. With an eye on the Hudson's past, he addresses America's present anxieties from race, gender, and marriage to energy, labor, and warfare with empathy and honesty, acknowledging the difficulties surrounding each issue without succumbing to pessimism or ideology. From the river's headwaters in the Adirondacks, Freeman follows the Hudson south through America's first industrial ghost towns where ruin begs for rebirth. Next is the Hudson Valley and the river's 153 mile estuary with its once teeming fisheries. Here agriculture is redefining itself while at West Point officer candidates train for America's murky modern wars. The Hudson Highlands too are prominent, the place where Americans first wed God to nature and where the mountains remain a potent place to mull that bond. From there it's on to Manhattan with its skyline that symbolizes the world's financial might as well as its startling fragility. As controversial as it is comforting, Freeman's narrative makes us think in hard ways about America as the country itself drifts toward an uncertain future. But throughout of course is the magnificent Hudson whose resilient beauty speaks well both to nature's toughness and America's greatest strength: the ability to redirect and change course when necessary.

Gone for a Sojer Boy Neal E. Wixson, 2011-01-01 Gone for a Sojer Boy is a companion book to Echoes from the Boys of Company H and is based upon hundreds of letters from a few Civil War soldiers of Company H 100th Regiment New York State Volunteers. They provide rare insight into the life and thoughts of common soldiers. This volume explores the changes the boys experienced during their time of service. Both camp life and battles are reviewed and serve to trace and explain the evolution of their opinions about important aspects of a soldier's life: namely death, politics, and religion. These young men were ordinary human beings who were rendered extraordinary by their experience. This rich collection of Civil War letters presents a colorful, illuminating portrait of common soldiers serving their country. Edward Longacre, author of more than 20 books on the Civil War, found this remarkable book to be a fascinating and unique telling of a soldier's story. The exhaustive work and research done by Neal Wixson to put letters and diaries together was only matched by his passion to tell of his great grandfather's war experience. The qualities of work by the author, the unique story of soldiers in their own words, make this a truly superb work of military history. It has my highest endorsement. General Anthony C. Zinni, USMC, retired. The letters of soldiers written to their loved ones at home reveal in plain, uncluttered language the details of the daily life of the soldier. The voice of the common soldier provides an intimate, personal view that is devoid of the posturing of politicians and officers. Neal Wixson has lovingly edited the letters into a poignant journey through this painful chapter of our nation's history. Jeff Toalson, Civil War author and lecturer. A great grandson of Thomas Maharg of Company H. Neal E. Wixson earned a B.A. from Oberlin College and a J.D. from Syracuse University College of Law. He is member of the Williamsburg Civil War Roundtable and the 100th Regiments Veterans Association He and his wife reside in Virginia
