The World Trade Organization and Trade in Services

Kern Alexander, Mads Tønnesson Andenæs, 2008 The World Trade Organisation plays the primary role in regulating international trade in goods services and intellectual property Traditionally international trade law and regulation has been analysed primarily from the trade in goods perspective Services are becoming an important competence for the WTO The institutional legal and regulatory influence of the General Agreement on Trade in Services GATS on domestic economic policymaking is attracting increasing attention in the academic and policymaking literature The growing importance of services trade to the global economy makes the application of the GATS to trade in services an important concern of international economic policy The GATS contains important innovations that build on the former GATT and existing WTO GATT trade regime for goods This book fills a void in the academic and policymaking literature by examining how the GATS governs international trade in services and its growing impact on the regulatory practice of WTO member states It offers a unique discussion of the major issues confronting WTO member states by analysing the GATS and related international trade issues from a variety of perspectives that include law political economy regulation and business Moreover the role of the WTO in promoting liberalised trade and economic development has come under serious strain because of the breakdown of the Doha Development Round negotiations The book analyses the issues in the Doha services debate with some suggested policy approaches that might help build a more durable GATS framework The book is a welcomed addition to the WTO literature and will serve as a point of reference for academics policymakers and practitioners

Deanna de Zilwa, 2010-09-17 As clocks struck midnight on the 31st December 2009 announcing the dawn of a new decade amidst the jubilation of a new beginning we paused momentarily to reflect on the decade that had just past It was a difficult era for many people and organisations Many were affected by war terrorism famine fire and tsunamis First world citizens enjoyed opportunities to relax in a technologically driven environment People on streets trains and planes from London Tokyo to New York sported the white ear buds of iPhones as de rigueur adornments The pace and intensity of our lives now seems to run at warp speed we rush from appointment to appointment swigging vitamin enhanced mineral water obsessing about fluctuations in our body mass index and the Dow Jones index in equal measure Yet as individuals we can choose to accept or reject some of these changes Those with sufficient material resources can cocoon themselves in high security fortress homes or relocate to safer more tranquil environs or even redesign themselves with the aid of Botox and a skilled plastic surgeon Yet some organisations do not have the luxury of volition they cannot choose whether to accept or

Education's Abiding Moral Dilemma Sheldon Rothblatt,2006 The conflict between access and quality in education has been front page news for decades Policies regarding the role of elite universities the organisation of secondary education admissions criteria courses of study high stakes testing and fiscal and programme accountability have changed with uncommon frequency resulting in confusion and uncertainty Yet it is the argument of this book that the tension between access to education and the preservation of quality is another chapter in the much longer history of merit selection in England Scotland and America and should be seen in its proper contexts The underlying cause of the difficulties however is the dilemma created by two competing conceptions of virtue one determined by merit judged competitively and the other more vaguely but emotionally supported by a broader view of worth Merit is consistent with liberal democracy but worth is the special province of social democracy None of the distinctions is easily categorised by political party or ideology They are the result of opposite moral impulses inherent in plural democratic societies undergoing the strains of internal and global competition
