The Life And Times Of Abdulwahid Sykes:

The Life and Times of Abdulwahid Sykes (1924-1968) Mohamed Said, 1998 Dar es Salaam. Histories from an Emerging African Metropolis James R. Brennan, Andrew Burton, Yusufu Qwaray Lawi, 2007 From its modest beginnings in the 1860s Dar es Salaam has grown to become one of Africa's most important urban centres. A major political, economic and cultural hub, the city has also acted as a crucible of local social and cultural innovation, exerting a powerful influence on wider Tanzanian society. Reflecting important contemporary socio-economic trends of urban Africa, it has recently attracted the attention of a diverse range of scholars from several disciplines. This collection draws on the best of this scholarship. Book Jacket

Church-State Relations in Africa in the Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries Jairzinho Lopes Pereira, 2022-08-26 This edited collection examines church-state relations in the European colonies in Africa during the late nineteenth and twentieth centuries. The chapters focus on the period stretching from the most agitated stages of the scramble for Africa during the 1870s and 1880s to the great wave of independence of African colonies in the 1950s and 60s and culminates in a discussion of colonial legacies during its aftermath. The Church and the State, although often having conflicting goals and agendas, walked hand in hand throughout the entire colonial period, with imperialism of the spirit being inconceivable without the groundwork of Catholic missionaries. Exploring the major domains that determined the course of church-state relations in the colonies, the authors analyse relations between the Holy See and the colonial powers and between national Catholic authorities and secular authorities as well as the international order and socio-political developments in the metropolises. They argue that interactions between state and church in Africa's European colonies were contingent upon the complex dynamics of interests that both secular and ecclesiastical entities endeavoured to preserve or promote. With a particular focus on the Belgian and Portuguese colonies in Africa, this book provides useful reading for scholars of European imperial history and ecclesiastical history.

Muslim-Christian Encounters in Africa Benjamin Soares, 2006-09-01 This timely collection offers new perspectives on Muslim-Christian encounters in Africa. Working against political and scholarly traditions that keep Muslims and Christians apart, the essays in this multidisciplinary volume locate African Muslims and Christians within a common analytical frame. In a series of historical and ethnographic case studies from across the African continent, the authors consider the multiple ways Muslims and Christians have encountered each other, borrowed or appropriated from one another, and sometimes also clashed. Contributors recast assumptions about the making and transgressing of religious boundaries, Christian-Muslim relations, and conversion. This engaging collection is a long overdue attempt to grapple with the multi-faceted and changing encounters of Muslims and Christians in Africa.

Diaspora and Nation in the Indian Ocean Ned Bertz, 2015-09-30 The vibrant Swahili coast port city of Dar es Salaam, literally the Haven of Peace, hosts a population reflecting a legacy of long relations with the Arabian Peninsula and a diaspora emanating in waves from the Indian subcontinent. By the 1960s, after decades of European imperial intrusions, Tanzanian nationalist forces had peacefully dismantled the last British colonial structures of racial segregation and put in place an official philosophy of nonracial nationalism Yet today more than five decades after independence race is still a prominent and publicly contested subject in Dar es Salaam What makes this issue so dizzyingly elusive for government bureaucrats and ordinary people alike is East Africa's location on the Indian Ocean a historic crossroads of diverse peoples possessing varied ideas about how to reconcile human difference social belonging and place of origin Based on a range of archival oral and newspaper sources from Tanzania and India this book explores the history of cross cultural encounters that shaped regional ideas of diaspora and nationhood from the earliest days of colonial Tanganyika when Indian settlement began to expand dramatically to present day Tanzania a nation always under construction The book focuses primarily on two prominent city spaces schools and cinemas the one a site of education the other a site of leisure one typically a programmatic entity of government the other usually a bastion of commercial enterprise Nonetheless the forces shaping schools and cinemas as they developed into busy centers of urban social interaction were surprisingly similar the state community organizations nationalist movements economic change and the transnational winds of Indian Ocean culture and capital Whether in the form of institutional apparatuses like networks of Indian teacher importation and curricula adoption or through the market predominance of the Indian film industry schools and cinemas in East Africa historically were influenced by actions and ideas from around the Indian Ocean Diaspora and Nation in the Indian Ocean argues that an Indian Ocean wide perspective enables an examination of the transnational production of ideas about race against a backdrop of changing relationships and claims of belonging as new notions of nationhood and diaspora emerged It bridges an academic divide because historians often either focus on the Indian diaspora in isolation or write it out of the story of African nation building Further in contrast to the swell of publications on global Indian or South Asian diasporas that highlight longings for and contacts with the homeland the book also demonstrates that much of the creative production of diasporic Indian identities formed in East Africa was a result of local albeit cosmopolitan encounters across cities like Dar es Salaam

Taifa James R. Brennan, 2012-05-29 Taifa is a story of African intellectual agency but it is also an account of how nation and race emerged out of the legal social and economic histories in one major city Dar es Salaam Nation and race both translatable as taifa in Swahili were not simply universal ideas brought to Africa by European colonizers as previous studies assume They were instead categories crafted by local African thinkers to make sense of deep inequalities particularly those between local Africans and Indian immigrants Taifa shows how nation and race became the key political categories to guide colonial and postcolonial life in this African city Using deeply researched archival and oral evidence Taifa transforms our understanding of urban history and shows how concerns about access to credit and housing became intertwined with changing conceptions of nation and nationhood Taifa gives equal attention to both Indians and Africans in doing so it demonstrates the significance of political and economic connections between coastal East Africa and

India during the era of British colonialism and illustrates how the project of racial nationalism largely severed these connections by the 1970s Nyerere Tom Molony,2014 This book presents the first truly rounded portrait of Nyerere's early life from his birth in 1922 until his graduation from Edinburgh in 1952 helping us to see his later political achievements in a new light It was after returning to Tanganyika that Mwalimu the teacher formally entered politics and led efforts to deliver Tanganyika to independence Publishers website The Life that I Live Alex Perullo,2003 Mufti Act of Zanzibar and the Fundamental Rights and Freedoms of Muslims on the Isles Chris Maina Peter,2008

Mwembechai Killings and the Political Future of Tanzania Hamza M. Njozi,2000 What is to be done Becoming Muslim in Mainland Tanzania, 1890-2000 Felicitas Becker,2008-09-11 Tanzania has moved from widespread conversion to Islam in the early twentieth century to recent bitter disputes over Islamic radicalism Using a combination of government mission and oral records this volume examines the intellectual and social forces behind these transitions Comparative Studies of South Asia, Africa, and the Middle East ,1999 The International Journal of African Historical Studies ,2007 On Archaeology of Sainthood and Local Spirituality in Islam Georg Stauth,2004 This volume addresses the diversity of sainthood in Islam with respect to rural and urban and metropolitan ideas practices and cults their networks and institutions Ranging from ethnography and history to political science and social theory this work includes studies of places and the local cultural significance of sainthood its ethnic or genealogical origin the constitution of corporations and brotherhoods and drives for sacredness in Algeria Egypt Germany and Turkey Georg Stauth is an orientalist and sociologist who specializes on the Middle East and has spent several years in Southeast Asia Using this vantage point he observes the emerging ideas of a modern Islamic future as forces of both local self assertiveness and transnational relations

Practicing History in Central Tanzania Gregory H. Maddox,Ernest M. Kongola,2006 History is preserved by individuals Ernest M Kongola a retired educator in living in Dodoma Tanzania has devoted much of the last twenty years to preserving the history of his people the Gogo He has produced seven volumes of clan histories biographies accounts of important events and descriptions of customs and traditions Maddox demonstrates how the past is constructed by critical actors like Ernest Kongola as part of an ongoing process of constructing the present Kongola participates in the construction and maintenance of a truly post colonial social order His work as a public historian as much as his written narratives shapes the role of history in the region In his projects he seeks to harmonize three different visions of the past One defines community created by ties of blood and located in a specific place A second characterizes history as the development of the modern nation The third sees history as the struggle to attain a state of grace with the divine Kongola seeks to place his community which he defines as family and tribe within the context of the Tanzanian nation within the moral and spiritual order of Christianity and within a global society By performing history as a public figure he defines more than just himself and his place in the social order of modern Tanzania he defines his class He consciously seeks to redefine social norms and cultural practices and to regularize them with Christianity and secular nationalism In doing so he participates in the creation of both a national Tanzanian modernity and a particular Gogo one Confronting New Realities Juma Volter Mwapachu,2005 In 1986 Tanzania agreed with the IMF and the World Bank to pursue robust social and economic reforms in light of the serious decline in the performance of the economy with the objective of achieving sustainable economic growth At a political level a multi party system was introduced and the first multi party elections held since 1962 took place in 1995 and again in 2005 This book examines in considerable depth the political and economic changes that have taken place in this period of reform It highlights both the achievements and the challenges that remain particularly those brought about by new and dynamic phase of globalisation in areas such as trade and investment The author articulates perspectives on the democratisation and governance trajectories the country should pursue to attain a more prosperous economic status whilst sustaining the unity peace and diversity that have characterised the country since independence African Study Monographs ,2003 In Search of a Nation Gregory Maddox,James Leonard Giblin,2005 Publisher description Islam in Contemporary Africa Afis Ayinde Oladosu,2007 Features essays which are written by scholars Christians and Muslims on their experience of Islam and the Muslims in the continent of Africa and how the phenomenon of terrorism and violence has impacted intra African harmony and cross cultural understanding in the world
