My present task is one of considerable difficulty but I have long had a notion that some time or another it would fall to my lot to perform it. I approach it therefore without apprehension entirely in consequence of having determined to my own satisfaction the manner in which the biography of so singular and so richly endowed a character as that of the late Lord Byron should be treated but still with no small degree of diffidence for there is a wide difference between determining a rule for one's self and producing according to that rule a work which shall please the public.
