The Copp Family Textiles Grace Rogers Cooper, 2016-10-14 The Copp Family Textiles SMITHSONIAN STUDIES IN HISTORY AND TECHNOLOGY AN EXTENSIVE COLLECTION of household textiles costume items furniture and related family pieces used by the Copp family of Stonington Connecticut from 1750 to 1850 were presented to the United States National Museum in the 1890s by John Brenton Copp Although it is not uncommon for families to save some treasured items from their beloved ancestors it is far less common to save so much of the more utilitarian types of fabrics ticking by the bolt handwoven sheets by the dozens yards and yards of fringes items that many other more frugal New Englanders might have continued to use throughout the nineteenth century In addition to the general background information this catalog includes considerable technical information about each textile These included thirty sheets twenty four of which were marked with embroidered initials Many of the earliest books on weaving textiles and needlework particularly those dating back to the 1900s and before are now extremely scarce and increasingly expensive We are republishing these classic works in affordable high quality modern editions using the original text and artwork     The Copp Family Textiles Grace Rogers Cooper, 1971

Shaker Textile Arts Beverly Gordon, 1982-07 A comprehensive book on the kinds of textiles the Shakers used how they were produced and their cultural and economic importance to the communities     The Weaver's Craft Adrienne D. Hood, 2011-01-01 Cloth was one of the most important commodities in the early modern world and colonial North Americans had to develop creative strategies to acquire it Although early European settlers came from societies in which hand textile production was central to the economy local conditions in North America interacted with traditional craft structures to create new patterns of production and consumption The Weaver's Craft examines the development of cloth manufacture in early Pennsylvania from its roots in seventeenth century Europe to the beginning of industrialization Adrienne D Hood's focus on Pennsylvania and the long sweep of history yields a new understanding of the complexities of early American fabric production and the regional variations that led to distinct experiences of industrialization Drawing on an extensive array of primary sources combined with a quantitative approach the author argues that in contrast to New England rural Pennsylvania women spun the yarn that a small group of trained male artisans wove into cloth on a commercial basis throughout the eighteenth century Their production was considerably augmented by consumers purchasing cheap cloth from Europe and Asia making them active participants in a global marketplace Hood's painstaking research and numerous illustrations of textile equipment swatch books and consumer goods will be of interest to both scholars and craftspeople

Legacies Steven Lubar, Kathleen M. Kendrick, 2014-06-03 The Smithsonian Institution has been America's museum since 1846 What do its vast collections from the ruby slippers to a piece of Plymouth Rock first ladies gowns to patchwork quilts a Model T Ford to a customized Ford LTD low rider tell Americans about themselves In this lavishly illustrated guide to the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History Steven Lubar and Kathleen M Kendrick tell the stories behind more than 250 of the museum's treasures many of them never before photographed for publication. These stories not only reveal what America as a nation has decided to save and why but also speak to changing visions of national identity. As the authors demonstrate views of history change over time methods of historical investigation evolve and improve and America's understanding of the past matures. Shifts in focus and attitude lie at the heart of Legacies which is organized around four concepts of what a national museum of history can be: a treasure house, a shrine to the famous, a palace of progress and a mirror of the nation. Thus the museum collects cherished or precious objects, houses celebrity memorabilia, documents technological advances and reflects visitors' own lives. Taking examples from science and technology, politics, decorative arts, military history, ethnic heritage, popular culture and everyday life, the authors provide historical context for the work of the Smithsonian and shed new light on what is important and who is included in American history. Throughout its history Lubar and Kendrick conclude the museum has played a vital role in both shaping and reflecting America's sense of itself as a nation.

Samplers & Samplermakers Mary Jaene Edmonds, 1991 American classrooms have gone largely unrecorded these astonishing embroideries which are usually signed, dated and even sometimes inscribed with the names of the towns in which they were worked and the names of the embroiderers. Teachers serve as historic documents attesting to the existence of colonial education for women. There is a story behind each of the nearly eighty samplers illustrated in this book. Insleaves
