Literary Criticism Gary Day, 2008-07-04 A THE Book of the Week Did you know that Aristotle thought the best tragedies were those which ended happily? Or that the first mention of the motor car in literature may have been in 1791 in James Boswell's Life of Johnson? Or that it was not unknown in the nineteenth century for book reviews to be 30 000 words long? These are just a few of the fascinating facts to be found in this absorbing history of literary criticism. From the Ancient Greek period to the present day, we learn about critics' lives, the times in which they lived, and how the same problems of interpretation and valuation persist through the ages. In this lively and engaging book, Gary Day questions whether the theory wars of recent years have lost sight of the actual literature, and makes surprising connections between criticism and a range of subjects, including the rise of money. General readers will appreciate this informative, intriguing, and often provocative.

F.R. Leavis Richard Storer, 2009-09-10 informative, succinct, circumspect, an exacting introduction to Leavis as an incisive master critic. Ideal for today's students and general readers. Chris Terry, Times Higher Education. F.R. Leavis is a landmark figure in twentieth-century literary criticism and theory. His outspoken and confrontational work has often divided opinion and continues to generate interest as students and critics revisit his highly influential texts. Looking closely at a representative selection of Leavis's work, Richard Storer outlines his thinking on key topics such as literary theory, criticism, and culture, canon formation, modernism, close reading, higher education. Exploring the responses and engaging with the controversies generated by Leavis's work, this clear, authoritative guide highlights how Leavis remains of critical significance to twenty-first-century study of literature and culture.

The humanities and the Irish university Michael O'Sullivan, 2016-05-16 This is the first book-length study of the humanities and the Irish university. Ireland was a deeply religious country throughout the twentieth century, but the colleges of its National University never established a religion or theology department. The official first language of Ireland is Irish, but the vast majority of teaching in the arts and humanities is in English. These are two of the anomalies that long constrained humanities education in Ireland. This book charts a history of responses to humanities education in the Irish context. Reading the work of John Henry Newman, Pádraig Pearse, Seán Ó Tuama, Denis Donoghue, Declan Kiberd, Richard Kearney, and others, it looks for an Irish humanities ethos. It compares humanities models in the US, France, and Asia with those in Ireland, in light of work by Immanuel Kant, Pierre Bourdieu, and Jacques Derrida. It should appeal to those interested in Irish education and history.
