Oostburg Rides Again Donald Kranendonk,2009-10-01 Reminiscences by the author of rural small town America in the 1950s Chronicles of the Crusades ,1888 Cumulative List of Organizations Described in Section 170 (c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 United States. It is often assumed that those outside of academia know very little about the Middle Ages But the truth is not so simple Non specialists in fact learn a great deal from the myriad medievalisms post medieval imaginings of the medieval world that pervade our everyday culture These like Lord of the Rings or Game of Thrones offer compelling if not necessarily accurate visions of the medieval world And more they have an impact on the popular imagination particularly since there are new medievalisms constantly being developed synthesised and remade But what does the public really know How do the conflicting medievalisms they consume contribute to their knowledge And why is this important In this book the first evidence based exploration of the wider public's understanding of the Middle Ages Paul B Sturtevant adapts sociological methods to answer these important questions Based on extensive focus groups the book details the ways both formal and informal that people learn about the medieval past and the many other ways that this informs and even distorts our present In the process Sturtevant also sheds light in more general terms onto the ways non specialists learn about the past and why understanding this is so important The Middle Ages in Popular Imagination will be of interest to anyone working on medieval studies medievalism memory studies medieval film studies informal learning or public history Living Church Quarterly ,1896 Littell's Living Age ,1879 The Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science, Art, and Finance ,1874 Living Pictures Noa

Turel,2020-09-25 A significant new interpretation of the emergence of Western pictorial realism When Jan van Eyck c 1390 1441 completed the revolutionary Ghent Altarpiece in 1432 it was unprecedented in European visual culture His novel visual strategies including lifelike detail not only helped make painting the defining medium of Western art they also ushered in new ways of seeing the world This highly original book explores Van Eyck's pivotal work as well as panels by Rogier van der Weyden and their followers to understand how viewers came to appreciate a world depicted in two dimensions Through careful examination of primary documents Noa Turel reveals that paintings were consistently described as au vif made not from life but into life Animation not representation drove Van Eyck and his contemporaries Turel's interpretation reverses the commonly held belief that these artists were inspired by the era's burgeoning empiricism proposing instead that their living pictures helped create the conditions for empiricism Illustrated with exquisite fifteenth century paintings this volume asserts these works key role in shaping rather than simply mirroring the early modern world The Publishers' Trade List Annual ,1875 The Living Age ,1876 Publication ,1992 The Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science and Art ,1874 The Forum Loretta Sutton Metcalf,Walter Hines Page,Joseph Mayer Rice,Frederic Taber
